Car plows into girls, killing one; Ontarian held

A 25-year-old Ontario man was being held on mansalughter charges today after his car allegedly ran down two young girls playing in a driveway in Ontario, fatally injuring one of them.

Robert Aguirre, 25, of 206 W. I St., Ontario, was arrested by Ontario police about 3 p.m., two miles from the scene of the accident where Julia Gonzalez, 2, of 1328 E. Holt Blvd. died of massive injuries. A second girl, Olympia Alvakos-Murillo, 7, of the same address was also injured in the mishap.

Police said that Aguirre, held in West End jail, will be formally charged today. His bail, originally posted at $5,000 was increased to $20,000 Wednesday night after police, in searching the suspect, found a quantity of seconal drugs hidden in a sock.

Police reported that the two little girls were playing in the driveway of their home about 2:43 p.m. when a car turned a corner at Grove Avenue east onto Holt Boulevard at a high rate of speed. The car slid out of control on loose gravel and went off the roadway.

Police said at the time of the incident construction crews had blocked off one of the two eastbound lanes because of a paving project.

After leaving the roadway the car fishtailed, barely missing one car and crashed into the side of a parked car off the road. The car continued eastbound, smashing into a child's "jungle gym" set and continued on, hitting a large used appliance store sign. The car, after hitting the sign, ran up onto the driveway where the two girls were playing, police said. The car struck the Gonzalez girl, dragging her underneath, and knocked the other girl to the ground.

Another motorist, Phillip Pannone, using his citizens band radio, called for police when he saw the girls were injured. Pannone told officers that the car then sped off and re-entered Holt Boulevard. When police arrived moments later, the car was seen turning on State Street about two miles from the accident scene. Police stopped the car at 1500 E. State Street and ordered the driver and a passenger outside.

Later police talked to another witness who said he saw a man get out of a smoking black car about a mile from the accident, and pull at the fender.

The passenger in Aguirre's car was released by police after questioning, but Aguirre was held.

The two girls were rushed to Ontario Community Hospital after the accident. The little Gonzalez girl was pronounced dead on arrival. The Alvakos-Murillo girl was treated for bruises and contusions and later released.

Pomona 'can't afford' to join new area burglary task force

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A special areawide task force that will combat the soaring rate of burglaries is about to be organized by 12 communities in the eastern part of Los Angeles County — except for Pomona.

The task force, a roving group of burglary specialists, is to be financed for the first year at least mostly with state funds, local police officials announced.

The California Commission on Criminal Justice is earmarking $509,000. Participating cities will match that amount with $28,285 of their own.

Each of the communities will assign an officer to the task force full time. The grant will compensate the cities for the services of the policemen.

The program is being presented to city councils throughout the Pomona and San Gabriel valleys. It will take effect Feb. 1.

Every community on the Los Angeles County side of the valley, except Pomona, is involved in the formation of the special force. In Pomona, Police Chief F. P. Wallick said his budget was too tight and he couldn't afford the $3,000 in matching funds required for Pomona.

Those cities which are participating include Azusa, Baldwin Park, Claremont, Covina, Glendora, Irwindale, La Verne, West Covina, Industry, La Puente, Walnut, and San Dimas. They are augmented by the sheriff's office at Industry and San Dimas.

Police Chief Jack Baker, in presenting the proposal to the La Verne City Council this week, said the number of burglaries has increased in the area by more than 300 per cent over last year.

He said more than 26 burglaries per square mile were committed in the valley last year.

"This is a tremendous increase," he said. "We are trying to do something to tighten our control over the whole area."

The task force will work out of Covina. It will study the burglars' methods of operation, and will work as needed in areas which are experiencing rashes of burglaries.

One of the biggest current problems, that of jurisdiction, will be eliminated, Baker said, since the members of the task force will come from local police departments. This means that task force members will be able to pursue suspects beyond their own city limits.

"We think such a program can be very effective," Baker said.

According to the police chief, a total of 10,900 burglaries were committed last year in the 414-square-mile area which the task force will cover.

Indonesian rebels shoot captive, open new front

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — Indonesian rebels opened a second front in Holland today, seizing the Indonesian consulate and at least 50 hostages in Amsterdam, officials said. Other Indonesian gunmen holding a hijacked train in northern Holland since Tuesday shot another hostage.

The rebels, who seek independence for their native South Molucca islands from Indonesia, raised the red, white and green flag of their "Republic of the Moluccas" over the consulate.

About 40,000 South Moluccans, descendants of East Indian and African slaves brought to the islands to work on Dutch plantations, fled to Holland after Indonesia received independence in 1949. Extremists among the exiles have increasingly turned to terrorist action to bring attention to their demands for independence.

In the Hague, Premier Joop den Uyl said the seizure of the consulate and the train hijack in Beilen 90 miles to the north were connected. He said prospects for a quick solution were "very sombre."

In northern Holland, authorities said the five gunmen holding hostages in a stranded train pushed a man to the door and shot him. He fell to the tracks and was believed dead.

The hijackers killed the engineer and another man when they seized the train Tuesday and have threatened to shoot their 37 remaining hostages one by one unless they are given a flight out of the country.

The shooting on the train occured just after a mediator, a South Moluccan resident of the Netherlands selected by the gunmen, left the train.

Authorities also released a statement apparently typed aboard the train by the gunmen and handed to the mediator. Written in Dutch, it said:

"We are doing this because the people in the train and the Dutch people did not approach the Dutch government 25 years ago when great injustice was done to our people. Queen Juliana said on Nov. 25, 1975: 'Each people has the right to independence.' People of Holland, we are not murderers, but we are prepared to fight for our country and kill again for the future of our country and independence and also be killed."

The statement was signed by the "Free South Moluccan Youth."

CONVINCING ACT

Miami bombs rock U.S. buildings, bank

MIAMI (AP) — Guards kept watch at all government buildings in Miami today after four federal offices and a bank were rocked by bomb blasts Wednesday night, police said. One bomb was defused.

No injuries were reported and one blast — at a bank west of the city — went unnoticed until employes came to work today and found the bomb fragments next to the building's glass front door.

Several officers narrowly escaped harm when one bomb, found during a city-wide search for other explosives after the first blast, went off before an attempt was made to dismantle it.

That blast was at a local Social Security office. It caused minor damage, mostly broken windows. Similar damage was reported at the local FBI headquarters and two post offices.

Police said they were searching for a man and woman seen speeding away from one of the post offices. But investigators said they had no idea who was responsible for the bombs.

Various Cuban exile groups have claimed responsibility for a number of bombings that have occurred in the Miami area in recent months.

By early today, however, no one had claimed responsibility for Wednesday's blasts, which came about a year after a similar wave of bombings. Those bombings, also unclaimed, were on the anniversary of the death of Cuban freedom-fighter Antonio Maceo on Dec. 7, 1898.

Officers said the first explosion Wednesday came at 8:18 p.m. when a small pipebomb went off outside a three-story building housing the Miami offices of the FBI and the Justice Department.

An FBI spokesman said several bureau employes were inside at the time.

Chinese tell of missing U.S. servicemen as Ford ends trip

PEKING (AP) — President Ford wound up his trip to China today with news from the Chinese on seven Americans missing in action before and during the Vietnam war and a promise by him to normalize U.S.-Chinese relations.

All of the missing Americans are dead, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference, but the remains of two of them have been recovered. He said that the next of kin of all seven would be notified within the next 48 hours.

The Americans, presumably pilots or airmen, were missing over the last 10 years in or near China, he said.

The last full day of Ford's China visit was marked by a banquet toast in the Great Hall of the People during which the President not only promised to normalize relations but to agree to disagree on attitudes toward the Soviet Union.

Aside from the news concerning the missing Americans, no other major announcements or specific agreements were made.

Ford leaves China on Friday for Indonesia.

In his banquet toast, Ford reaffirmed to China's leaders that the United States is committed "to complete the normalization of relations" with China, but that both would pursue their policies guided by national interest.

China's acting premier, avoiding any reference to the touchy subject of U.S.-Soviet detente that he had attacked Monday, said that although Washington and Peking "share many problems" contacts between Ford and the Chinese leaders have helped "to increase mutual understanding."

Kissinger told the news conference that China had made clear that it would accept the Japanese model in concluding relations with the United States. The Japanese switched recognition from Taipei to Peking in 1972 but continued trade, economic and cultural contacts with Taipei.

Kissinger conceded that the Chinese-American views on Korea were not identical but that both understood the other's position and would "exercise restraint on the Korean peninsula."

Asked when he planned to go to Moscow, Kissinger said a final decision had not been made. But he made it clear he would probably go, and that he would know in the next week or so the date he would leave.

Ford has said he would not send Kissinger to Moscow unless there was a promise of progress on Strategic Arms Limitation Talks with the Soviets.

During the day Ford toured the summer palace, while Mrs. Ford and daughter Susan visited a carpet factory. The Chinese news agency Hsinhua said Susan also witnessed an operation performed under acupuncture anesthesia at a Peking hospital.

Goldwater leads poll

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. is the strongest possible Republican rival facing Democrat John Tunney in his reelection bid to the U.S. Senate, the California Poll said today.

The survey said Goldwater made the best showing of four against the Democratic incumbent, trailing Tunney by six percentage points, 47 per cent to 41 per cent. Tunney apparently is losing ground to Goldwater, who trailed in a similar poll last August by 16 percentage points.

The current poll shows that Tunney enjoys comfortable leads over former Lt. Gov. Robert Finch, 50 per cent to 34 per cent, semanticist S.I. Hayakawa 51 per cent to 31 per cent, and Congressman Alphonzo Bell 53 per cent to 23 per cent.

Low clouds were predicted for Friday morning with overcast skies prevailing the rest of the day. The National Weather Service said day temperatures would drop to the mid-60s today and Friday.

Got license number

Girl's alertness leads to arrest of suspects

An 11-year-old girl's alertness resulted in the prompt arrest of two suspects charged with the holdup Monday afternoon of Lorrie's Market at 649 W. Gladstone Ave., San Dimas.

The suspects are Darryl Elder, 18, of 633 Sandyhook Ave., La Puente, and a 16-year-old West Covina youth. Elder was arraigned Wednesday in Pomona Municipal Court and faces preliminary hearing Dec. 8. He was ordered held in lieu of $5,000 bail. The juvenile has been confined at Juvenile Hall.

Detective Sgt. Pat Shields of the San Dimas station gave this account of their arrests:

The little girl was waiting for a bus near the market when she saw two young men back their car into the parking lot. She overheard one say, "Let's wait until the delivery truck leaves" (referring to a deliveryman inside the store).

After he left, she heard one of the youths say, "Let's go!" and saw them run into the market. Suspicious now, she jotted down the car's license number and boarded her bus. She told her parents about the incident when she got home.

After the holdup, Shields was canvassing the neighborhood for information about the robbers and was told by the parents of their daughter's action. He was given the car's license number and it led them to La Puente and Elder. It was his father's car.

After Elder's arrest, photographs, including that of the 16-year-old, were shown the victims, Steve S. Spolar, 68, and his daughter, Linda, 27, and they identified the youth as Elder's companion. Shields arrested him as he was leaving La Puente High School Wednesday.

Shields said that with the arrests, the pistol believed used in the robbery and some of the cash was recovered. He said he planned to file a petition accusing the 16-year-old of being a robbery suspect.

Estrogen linked to higher cancer risk

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Estrogen treatment for postmenopausal symptoms exposes women to a cancer risk that is as much as 14 times greater than women not taking the hormone treatment, a study conducted at the Kaiser Permanente Medical Center here indicates.

Details of the study, conducted jointly by Drs. Harry K. Ziel and William D. Finkle, were to be published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Ziel and Finkle estimated about half of all cases of cancer of the lining of the wall of the uterus can be linked to estrogen use. They said about 27,000 cases of such endometrial cancer occur each year in the United States, with 3,300 deaths.

Despite the Ziel-Finkle findings, most doctors queried in the Los Angeles area said they would continue to prescribe estrogen treatment because the possibility of developing endometrial cancer was less than the lung cancer risk run by heavy smokers.

Besides, some of the doctors added, many of the women taking estrogen have undergone hysterectomies and so they are in no danger of developing uterine cancer.

"Properly used, this drug is extremely valuable (and) the problems arise from excessive use," said Dr. Jack Hallatt, a veteran Kaiser staff member.

He warned, however, that "the notion that estrogens will keep women feminine forever must be discouraged. It's not the magic fountain of youth that everybody subconsciously wants."

Oil firms plead no contest in price-fixing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Phillips Petroleum Co. of Oklahoma and Douglas Oil Co. of California have pleaded no contest to federal charges they fixed prices on more than $90 million worth of oil for five western states.

U.S. District Court Judge Malcolm M. Lucas scheduled sentencing for Dec. 15, accepting the no contest pleas Wednesday over the objections of the federal prosecutor.

Gasoline sold in California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona was priced noncompetitively in 1970 by the oil firms, the suit filed by the Justice Department said.

The suit alleged the defendants deprived customers of the opportunity of buying gas on a "Free and unrestricted market."

Railroad shutdown averted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators reached a tentative settlement today averting a strike threatened by 70,000 members of shopcraft unions that would have closed down virtually all of the nation's railroads.

The agreement came after the unions postponed a scheduled 6 a.m. walkout which would have stranded thousands of commuters and long-distance travelers and halted rail freight deliveries.

The postponement followed tentative agreement on two key issues. Negotiators continued talks on several others, ultimately reching a tentative settlement at late morning.

A formal announcement was expected before noon.

Chief federal mediator W. J. Usery said he was hopeful for a quick settlement and told reporters just after the strike deadline, "It looks as if we came long way tonight."

As he shuttled between suites where negotiations were taking place, Usery said he had been assured "by the unions, they will continue to bargain."

Following an all-night bargaining session, a union spokesman said simply, "no strike has been authorized and negotiations are continuing."

One bargainer for the rail companies said, "We're going to take a couple of hours off and get some sleep."

Earlier a union bargainer had said agreement was reached on two work rules issues and that three others remain to be resolved.

Wholesale prices hold

Inflation easing?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seasonally adjusted wholesale prices showed no change in November, the government reported today, signalling an easing in inflationary pressures.

The Labor Department reported that prices actually fell by four-tenths of a per cent during November, but that after adjustment for seasonal variations the wholesale price index was flat.

The easing in inflationary pressure follows the biggest increase in wholesale prices of the year in October, when the index jumped 1.8 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The November report marked the smallest variation in wholesale prices since they declined by one-tenth of a per cent in June.

The stable performance means the index is now 3.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This is the smallest 12-month climb since the year ending in April 1972 and is a sharp contrast to the 23.5 per cent by which wholesale prices had increased in the previous 12 months ending last November.

The Labor Department attributed November's price performance to lower food prices and a moderation of prices for industrial commodities, which had surged in October.

October's increase was the biggest since the same month a year ago and marked the fourth consecutive monthly increase this year.

It was powered largely by higher prices for automobiles, steel mill products and lumber and wood products — all of which remained stable or declined less than one-tenth of a per cent in November.

At the same time, prices for farm products dropped 1.2 per cent in November, their first decrease in three months and the largest since a 1.4 per cent dive in June.

The Labor Department commodities pacing the decrease were fresh and dried vegetables, oil seeds, hogs and grain. Prices for animal feeds, poultry and fish also declined.

Over-all, however, prices for industrial commodities continued to push up, although the six-tenths of a per cent increase was half the 1.2 per cent jump in October.

Labor said the biggest factors in the industrial commodities performance were higher prices for textile products and apparel and hides, leather and related products.

The rate of increase in the industrial sector is considered by many economists to represent the economy's basic rate of inflation because the farm prices fluctuate more.

The overall increase for industrial commodities in November, although smaller than any in the last three months, is still larger than for any month in the 6-month period ending last July, when inflation began staging a resurgence.

Doctors' wives use sleep-in tactics to protest high rates

SACRAMENTO (AP) — About 25 doctors' wives, staking out spots for sleeping bags in the governor's reception room, have vowed not to budge until they see Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

They had a lively, 20-minute confrontation with Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally just before midnight, when Dymally walked in and chidded their cause and their riches — but later changed his tone to sympathy and support.

The women, from the San Fernando Valley and West Los Angeles, want Brown to call a special session of the legislature to deal with what they call an immediate crisis in malpractice premiums.

They also argued with Donald Burns, Brown's business and transportation secretary, and Mario Obledo, Brown's health and welfare secretary.

But Brown, who sent out for a chicken dinner, was tied up in budget discussions with University of California officials, a marathon meeting which made his immediate presence unlikely, said Bill Stall, his press secretary.

Roberta Weintraub, speaking for the Women for Malpractice Reform group, said an immediate special session is needed to head off a planned 485 per cent increase in premiums Jan. 1 by Travelers Insurance in Southern California.

Dymally, seeing their fancy sleeping bags, opened up:

"It's not real. It's too fancy. You're rich. I've been to a lot of picketing in my life ...."

He said if they seek legislation against high malpractice insurance premiums, they should also seek legislation to cut the high cost of auto insurance in Watts.

They argued back and forth, and Dymally changed his tone.

"It's a serious philosophical problem when you start legislating premiums" because it would be intervening in private industry.

"You're causing a disaster by not doing anything," Mrs. Weintraub declared.

Dymally said he didn't realize the percentage increases in insurance were so high, and he pledged to support a special session call after the legislature returns Jan. 5.

About 50 women came to the capital in a bus, but about half of them — including some pregnant women — were unable to spend the night, Mrs. Weintraub said.

A wide-ranging bill approved in special session in September takes effect Dec. 12, but Mrs. Weintraub said it "doesn't do anything about premiums."

She said her husband, a colon and rectal surgeon, now pays $4,600 for insurance and will quit his practice Dec. 15 because he faces "a premium of almost $28,000. For moral and social reasons, he will not pay it. He would rather not practice."

Covina woman's skeletal remains discovered in Riverside area

The skeletal remains of a woman found Friday in a remote, hilly area of Riverside were identified Wednesday as those of Miss Mona Jean Gallegos, 22-year-old Covina woman who vanished after her car ran out of gas on the San Bernardino Freeway June 19.

Miss Gallegos had been the object of a widespread search by Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies after her disappearance early that morning. Photographs of the young woman were sent to nearly every newspaper and television station in Southern California.

Riverside County Deputy Coroner Carl Smith identified the victim by her dental records and from jewelry found on the remains. He said there was no way of determining the cause of her death, but further tests were planned. None of the bones showed any damage, he added.

The skeleton was found by two boys hiking in the hills.

Miss Gallegos' auto apparently used the last of its fuel just a few hundred yards from a service station at the end of the Santa Anita Avenue off-ramp. She had been driving home from a visit with a friend in Alhambra. Investigators believe she accepted help from a passing motorist.

A similar theory is used to explain the disappearance of 18-year-old Robin Graham whose car ran out of gas on the Hollywood Freeway in 1970. There has been no trace of Miss Graham since a California Highway Patrolman stopped, spoke to her and left her alone after her car ran out of gas that night.

Spotlight on area crime

Sporting goods store robbed

A man who loitered inside the Big 5 Sporting Goods store at 696 W. Holt Ave. Wednesday night for an hour eventually robbed the place of 50 pistols valued at $5,421, Pomona police reported.

Night Manager Robert C. Fulton, 25, said the man, a Caucasian about 25, walked up to him at the cash register, handed him a tennis bag from the store's stock and drew a short-barreled, nickel-plated revolver from beneath his shirt. "Let's go over to the gun counter," he said. Fulton agreed.

Then the robber ordered Fulton to place all the pistols from the display case's three shelves into the bag. The weapons included several reproductions of antique pistols and many modern revolvers and automatics.

When the case had been emptied the robber ordered Fulton and an employe, Anthony E. Schoen, 21, to walk to the rear of the store. As they did, he fled out the front door with the heavy bag.

The robber weighed about 150 pounds, had brown hair which reached just below his ears and had a a mustache and wrap-around beard. He wore a white western-style shirt and flared denim trousers.

WEST VALLEY Superior Court Judge Clifton L. Allen Tuesday sentenced Frank Phillip Mendoza, a California Institute for Men inmate convicted of second degree murder, to a life term in state prison.

Mendoza, Monday afternoon was found guilty of second degree murder and assault with a deadly weapon by a life prisoner on another prisoner, in the June 19 slaying of CIM Inmate Jesse Valenzuela. The jury spent four days in deliberation before coming to a verdict.

Judge Allen pronounced the sentence after Mendoza, already serving a life term for murdering another prisoner and assault, waived his probation hearing.

Theoretically, Mendoza would be eligible for parole after eight years on the new sentence, according to a court spokesman.

The sentencing in POMONA Superior Court of Gregory Thomas, 21-year-old man against whom a jury recommended the death penalty Nov. 12 after a lengthy rape-murder trial, has been continued to Jan. 19.

The continuation was granted by Judge Robert M. Takasugi at the request of Thomas' attorney, Joe Borges Jr. of Pomona. Borges said he needed additional time to prepare legal motions before the formal sentencing. He already has indicated that he intends to appeal the conviction.

Thomas was ruled guilty of murder, rape and burglary in the slaying April 7 of Miss Tessie Fern Williams, 78-year-old former missionary nurse. Miss Williams was stabbed to death in her small home in Pomona.

Thomas, of Pomona, is the first man to be made a candidate for the gas chamber by a Pomona jury since enactment of legislation concerning capital punishment last January. The law was the result of an initiative endorsed by voters. It requires that so-called "special circumstances" be proved against a person convicted of murder.

A 20-year-old Glendora woman who told police she was raped by two juvenile youths early Saturday in POMONA has refused to prosecute the pair and they have been released, investigators said.

The young woman and her 19-year-old girlfriend, also from Glendora, told police they were leaving a Pomona nightclub, Chocolate City at Towne Avenue and Arrow Highway, when they were forced into a car and driven to Ted Greene Park nearby where one said she was attacked after her companion ran.

Carson gets offer of $1 million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television entertainer Johnny Carson has received an offer of $1 million to appear in a motion picture version of author Irving Shaw's new book, "Nightworks."

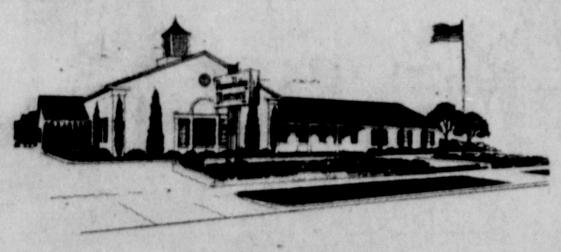

Shaw was a guest Tuesday on Carson's "Tonight Show" and talked about the book, which is about a down-and-out resident of a sleazy hotel who finds a dead man with $100,000 in his pockets.

During the talk agent Irving Lazar walked on camera and offered Carson what he said was a $1 million check if he would take the starring role, saying it would only take 10 days to film.

A spokesman for NBC said Carson was thinking about the offer.

SALES GAIN — The chart depicts domestic car sales for General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and the American Motors Corp. from 1972 to 1975.

Car sales show dramatic gain

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales last month shot up 35 per cent above the recession levels of November 1974 to provide the most dramatic sign yet that the auto industry has pulled out of its two-year slump.

The year-to-year percentage gain, reported Wednesday, was the largest for any month in nearly four years and contrasted sharply to a year ago, when plummeting sales forced unprecedented plant closings and massive worker layoffs.

However, sales of foreign cars, which had taken a record share of the U.S. market earlier this year, were the poorest since last December and the second lowest in 6½ years. Sales fell 4 per cent from already poor levels of November 1974.

The imports' weak showing, combined with strong domestic sales, gave foreign makers their smallest share of the U.S. market in four years.

Importers blamed their sales decline on shortages of some models and increased competition in the small-car market from Detroit, which has gone all out this year to match foreign cars in fuel economy.

Auto analysts said the sharp November gains by the U.S. companies reflected an accelerated recovery which got underway in early fall. They said sales had been improving earlier this year, but not as rapidly.

The industry's worst slump in four decades — triggered by the energy crisis in the fall of 1973 and dampened further by the recession — hit bottom a year ago when sales fell to their lowest levels for a November in 15 years.

Each of the four auto companies posted big sales increases this November. American Motors was up 70 per cent, General Motors 35 per cent, Ford 34 per cent and Chrysler 28 per cent.

Despite the large gains — exaggerated by last year's dismal results — the industry's performance still lagged well behind other recent Novembers. Sales were off 12 per cent from November 1973 and 23 per cent from the record set in 1972.

In other auto developments Wednesday:

—AMC said it would halt Pacer production next week to bring inventories in line with sales. About 3,800 of 11,000 workers at the firm's Kenosha, Wis., assembly plant will be laid off for the week.

—Ward's Automotive Reports, an industry statistical service, said the U.S. companies plan to build 2,141,000 cars in the first quarter of 1976, up 65 per cent from the first quarter of 1975 and the largest output in nine quarters.

The U.S. companies sold 654,979 cars in 24 selling days last month, compared with 505,511 in 25 selling days in November 1974.

With the exception of a robust daily rate in October, the November selling tempo was the strongest for the domestics since June 1974.

The companies sold a record 9.7 million cars in 1973 before the energy crisis and recession sent sales slipping to 7.4 million last year and an estimated 7 million this year.

LAS plans marine lab

CARLSBAD (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Service of Ontario, Calif. plans to open a marine laboratory next month to make environmental surveys off the San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station.

Marine biologist Peter Benson said the lab's prime function will be to monitor the impact of discharges from the nuclear power plant into the Pacific Ocean.

Benson and his staff of 25 currently work in three locations scattered along the coast, checking for signs of thermal pollution from the plant. Thus far, no significant damage to marine life has been found, he said.

Right to die advocate dies

EL CAJON (AP) — No services are planned for Marjorie Berg, the cancer victim who campaigned for legislation recognizing "the right to die."

She died Tuesday in her home, nearly two years after learning she had terminal cancer. She lived almost a year longer than doctors thought she would.

Price of Christmas trees up 5 to 10%

MILWAUKEE (AP) — This year's Christmas tree harvest is over, and growers have prepared for a return to prerecession sales levels.

The good tidings involve prices on the estimated 30 million natural trees that Americans will buy this month. Industry sources say prices are up 5 to 10 per cent from 1974, a less-than-expected increase.

That means the most popular tree, a 6-foot Scotch pine, can be taken home to deck the halls for $8.25 to $12, said Donald L. McNeil, executive director of the Milwaukee-based National Christmas Tree Growers Association.

Not that everyone cares. An estimated one-quarter of the 66 million households in the U.S. prefer trees of the plastic or metal variety.

McNeil added that "the fastest growing group is the family with no tree at all—about one-third of all homes."

In anticipation of a return of Christmas spirit, as defined by consumer spending, McNeil estimates that growers harvested 30 million trees this year.

Those breaking family tradition by turning to a polyvinyl chloride tree will find the price about the same as last year, said Gordon Shapiro, president of Gordon Industries at Chicago.

The computer giveth and then taketh away

BALTIMORE (AP) — The computer at the Social Security Administration headquarters in Baltimore killed off Herman Cosman in April. Happily for Cosman, it has now restored him to the Medicare rolls.

Cosman, who is most definitely alive in Plantation, Fla., will be getting his Medicare check, as well as back payments, within a few days, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Cosman, a 68-year-old retired industrial electrician, and his 65-year-old wife had been reimbursed regularly for 80 per cent of their hospital bills until eight months ago.

Cosman is suffering from cancer of the bladder and his wife is also in poor health. In April, medical bills started coming back with the notation, "Expenses occurred after entitlement ended."

In short, the computer said Cosman was dead.

Cosman then began writing a series of letters to complain.

"I'm sorry to inconvenience you, but I'm still alive," he wrote at one point.

He began another letter, "About my recent death . . ." But even humor did not budge the bureaucracy, and Cosman began to worry that the mounting bills would prompt his doctors to refuse the constant treatment he needs.

A spokesman for the Social Security Administration conceded Tuesday the agency is still unsure how the error came about.

"The most usual explanation in such cases is a mistake in coding when a patient is discharged from a hospital," the spokesman said.

In any event, the spokesman said, the mistake probably did not originate in the Social Security Administration, which keeps a master Medicare file in Baltimore with the aid of a computer that must rely on information from hospital insurance groups across the nation.

The spokesman said action to correct the Cosman error was initiated when the error was brought to the attention of a Social Security office in Broward County, Fla., on Nov. 19.

And the machine processed the right information Tuesday, the spokesman said.

Nuclear blackmail threats spur plan

SACRAMENTO (AP) — There have been several threats of nuclear blackmail in the last few years in California, state and federal officials say.

All have been hoaxes, so far. But they have spawned a plan with the with the ominous title: "Nuclear Blackmail Emergency Response Plan for the State of California ... Phase 1: The Threat." It exists because some day the threat may be real and the state or private industry may be forced to make the decision: pay off or suffer the destruction of a nuclear bomb or the deadly effects of radiation.

Officials are thinking about a second plan — what to do if the threat is real. But they said that plan hasn't been drafted yet.

Officials decline to outline the threats that have been received, or state exactly how many there have been.

"We already have had threats. This plan wasn't something we just decided to do. We felt there was a need," Jack Kearns, radiological and intelligence officer for the state Office of Emergency Services, said in an interview.

Kearns is the chief author of the plan that was developed and approved by a committee representing various agencies.

It was released in September to county sheriffs, police chiefs and regional fire departments.

"We spent a long time here in the office before we decided to release it," Kearns said. "We were fearful it would be a catalyst to set something off. But yet, to hold it and not let the various agencies in on it would be a mistake."

The plan makes the FBI the lead agency for an investigation. The federal Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) plays a key role in determing the validity of a threat.

"Acts of extortion or blackmail involving radioactive materials pose a myriad of complex problems and require a coordinated response from many different federal, state and local agencies," the plan states.

It breaks response actions into two phases: Responsibility for assessing credibility, monitoring, searching, deactivating and disposing; and evacuation, decontamination and cleaning up if a threat is carried out.

"The problems and actions resulting when a threat has actually been carried out will be addressed in a separate plan," it said.

"Ultimately, there will be a Phase II plan," he said. "It will deal with what we do when we do deem a threat credible."

Kearns said just how ERDA would check out a threat or conduct a search is an "inhouse" plan. "We can't expect ERDA to tell us how they go about it."

"California is in pretty good shape to react," said Dale Cook, ERDA information officer in San Francisco.

Cook said that while the carrying out of a threat is possible, it is only remotely so because of the technology required, the safeguards in use and the danger to the high risk of radiation death to the would-be blackmailer.

"The blackmailer is only as good as his product," Cook said. "Everything we've ever had has been a hoax. They read too much fiction. But as long as people are feeding off the bomb scare, people are scared.

"A fellow calls, says he's got a bomb, but it's not even plausible. What's the payoff?

"If you really wanted to blackmail, it would be so much easier to get your hands on material more toxic and easier to control."

Still, Cook said, "You treat every threat as serious. You don't say they are cranks at first. Some clown will come along and say, 'I've got this or that.' We've got to be cool and calm, check out the system and cope with it."

By checking the system, Cook refers to the government's computerized system that can quickly determine if a significant amount of fissionable material is missing.

Cook said California, with such nuclear-oriented laboratories as Donner at Berkeley and Lawrence at Livermore, has highly trained personnel to help in the event of an emergency. Search and decontamination teams already exist at these facilities, he said, and medical teams — doctors specializing in radiology — could be mobilized.

"We're prepared, ready to respond and provide advice," Cook said. "We have the capability to measure an allegation and determine where it could come from. We have taken good, prudent safeguards."

Key elements are the forms used when a threat is received by telephone. The caller is asked certain questions that, pieced together, go a long way toward determining validity. Questions even include the threat's "What, Why, When and Where."

"You plan on people's ignorance," Cook said.

The plan lists six types of threats, including detonation of an "improvised nuclear device" or a weapon stolen from the military.

Kearns said those two types "fall into the improbable category," but the following would be more credible.

—Dispersal of radioactive material other than plutonium.

—Detonation of a conventional bomb salted with radioactive material — plutonium, strontium or other known radioactive isotope.

—Detonation or dispersal of highjacked radioactive materials, such as a spent fuel shipment or radioactive materials used in hospitals or pharmacies.

—Dispersion of plutonium in order to contaminate.

Scuba divers find skeleton in sealed drum

SAN RAFAEL (AP) — Police scuba divers searching bay waters off Point San Quentin have located a sealed oil drum containing a human skeleton.

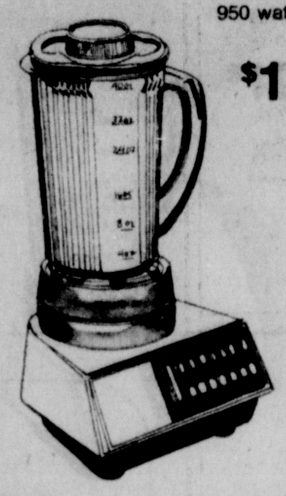

Police said the body had been submerged for about two years.

Police said they were acting on a tip Tuesday from the Sonoma County Sheriff's office that a murder victim had been placed in a steel drum and dumped in the bay.

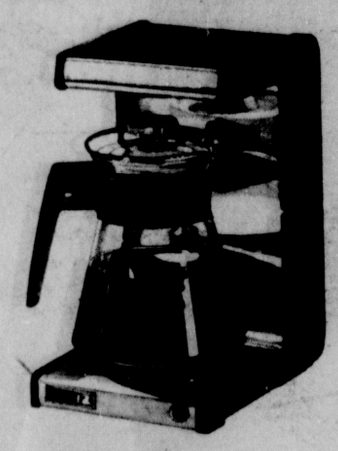

A similar search had been launched last June, but nothing was found. The search was resumed Tuesday after a new tip from Sonoma County authorites.

Man dead; compensation keeps coming

CLEVELAND (AP) — Yvonne M. Alford says her physician father has been receiving checks each year since 1953 from the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation for medical care for injured workers. He died in 1953.

"Something is fouled up someplace and someone didn't get the word," Mrs. Alford said in a telephone interview from her home in Amherst, 30 miles from Cleveland. She said she has sent the checks back each year with the notation that her father, Dr. Arthur F. McQueen, is deceased, but she has received no reply.

Reached by telephone in the state capital in Columbus, David B. Godfrey, deputy administrator of the bureau, said his staff spent a few hours investigating the case but "couldn't find any correlation to that particular name in our files."

A special legislative committee is investigating Ohio's Workmen's Compensation system.

"We would have something if the checks were sent out," said Godfrey. "As far as I know, he didn't receive any checks from our bureau. My people tell me something similar happened a week ago and it turned out that those checks were from Social Security. Her father might have got them from Social Security."

"No, it hasn't from Social Security," said Mrs. Alford. "The envelopes were Workmen's Compensation envelopes. I don't remember what was on the checks. I can't prove I got them. I have no photostats."

Godfrey said his staff is continuing to look into the matter. He said the system is computerized.

Mrs. Alford said her father was a physician in Amherst for about 40 years. He died July 18, 1953, at the age of 68. Since then, she said, he has received a check once or twice a year for about $15 or $20.

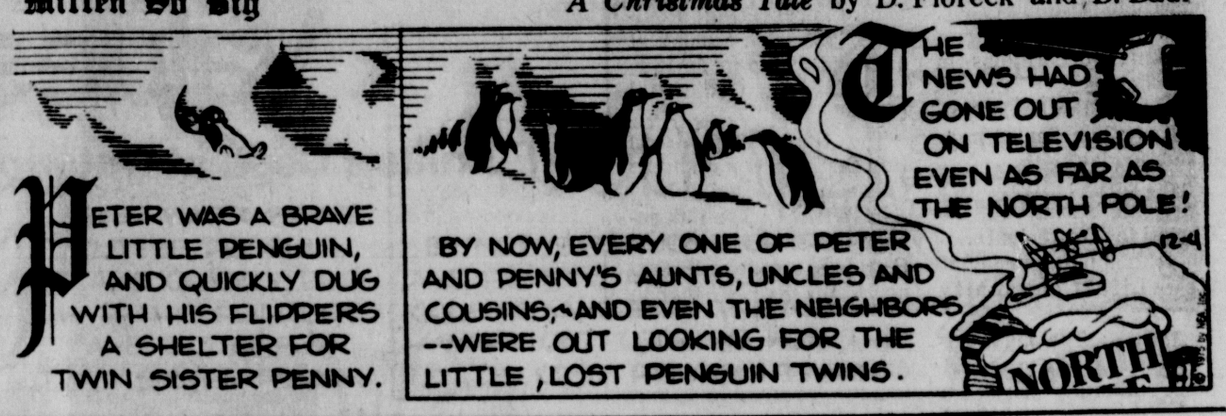

Mrs. Alford said the checks were made out to her father at his old office address in Amherst, but were forwarded to her by the post office. She explained that Amherst is a small town, once with only 3,000 population but now up to about 10,000, and postal workers knew she was Dr. McQueen's daughter.

The last check she received was about six months ago, she said, and she returned it to the regional bureau in Cleveland.

"I thought maybe they could get through where I couldn't," she said. "I thought I'd try another avenue. I've received no word since then."

She said it is possible that some of the checks during the first few years after her father's death were back pay — "But they would have to be sent back anyway to be rewritten through the estate. They couldn't be cashed."

ENERGY EXPERT — David Lilienthal, former head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, says solving the energy problem must start at the grass roots level, with people, not politicians.

TVA architect says

Lack of leadership in U.S. lamentable

NEW YORK (AP) — As David Lilienthal assesses the condition of America there is a tremendous waste of human resources, an inaction, a negativism, a timidity of leadership, public and private, that is lamentable.

That, he said, is not the way to build the country, a country he suggests is still in a relatively early state of development.

"If we make up our mind, get the lead out, we'll find this is the greatest underdeveloped country in the world, and that it doesn't have to be timid and fearful of growth," he said. We are holding ourselves back, he added.

"We talk about the energy problem and conserving energy while we waste the basic energy, human energy, through unemployment and through lack of a massive program of across-the-board improvement of human skills," he said.

Lilienthal, 76, former chairman and chief architect of the Tennessee Valley Authority and later first chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, views many attitudes today to be a contraction of America's "can do" spirit.

"When you have to do things in this country some of the 'impossible' things happen," he said in an interview at his midtown office, after more than two years of what he described as growing impatience with inaction.

When the nation had to turn out aircraft in World War Two it did so — somehow; when TVA had to build 12 dams simultaneously the dams got built; and energy and other developmental challenges can be met equally well, he said, if we just get moving.

The "defensive, overly critical" spirit that prevails, he said, is unbecoming. "Most people aren't happy with the pride of their country being questioned; there is a latent, underlying optimism, and it must be released."

He continued: "This country isn't done. The 'limits of growth doctrine' is phoney," he declared flatly, maintaining it emerged from a continent where "France has its tongue hanging out and the European Russians are still dependent on the United States for food.

"This country is dead if it adopts the European style, the negative attitude toward growth," he said. "We should appreciate the basic dynamics of this country and forget our roots in Europe.

To Lilienthal, an "energy shortage" results from an underuse of human energy. Human energy, "drive, brainpower, creativity, imagination," puts other energy to work for human use.

Utilize this energy, he said, and you solve the problems of producing power for factories and homes, as well as the other essentials of life, including the development of a rich culture and sound government.

TVA didn't change people from being powerless, dispirited people by saving energy, he said. "It came from the use of energy," human energy in conjunction with the raw energy latent in the area.

His own company, Development and Resources Corp., has for the past 20 years worked on the large scale, integrated development of resources throughout the world. His experience: Human energy is the catalyst.

To develop the underutilized natural resources of this country, he said, will take spirit and leadership — human energy. And where will it come from?

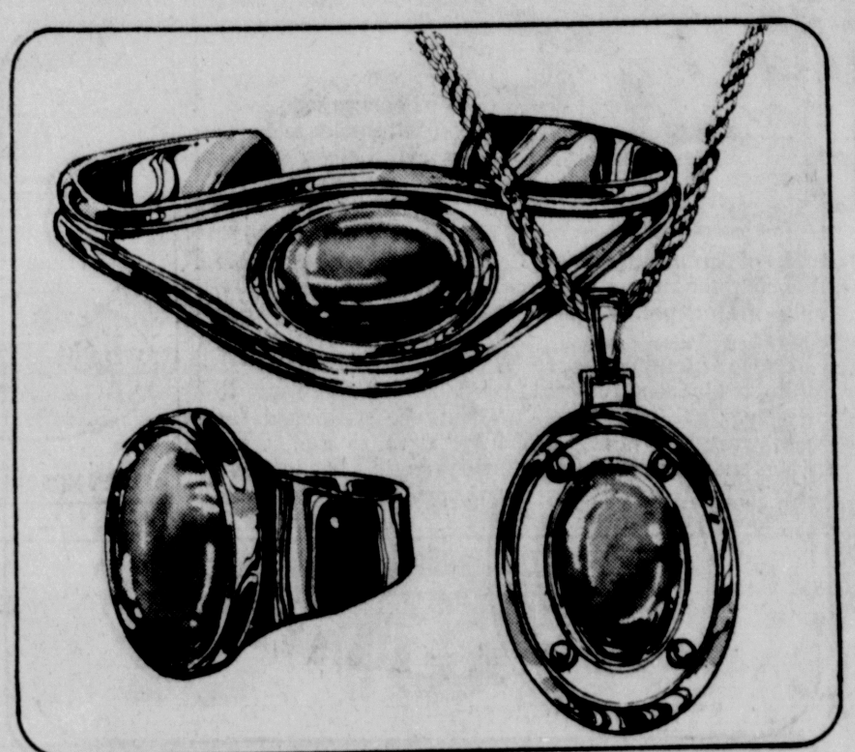

In his view it is there, stored as if in batteries, diffused throughout the nation, in local communities and private organizations. There, he said, is where leadership resides — not condensed in what are thought to be great centers of powers.

BIRDNAPPED — The Phoenix Zoo's "Fruit Loop" bird, a sulfur-breasted toucan, was recovered unharmed Saturday inside a sack near a Tempe, Ariz., fire station. Senior bird keeper Ralph Jones, pictured with the bird, said he was taken Tuesday from his cage. The bird needs a special diet of meat, fruit and vitamins, but he's in good shape.

Ailing woman's wish for death realized

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP) — Death has finally answered the fondest, yet most bitter wish of cancer-stricken Marjorie Berg.

The terminally ill housewife and mother died Tuesday at 45. She lingered on for months longer than doctors had expected, but not long enough to see legislation enacted to allow those like herself to end their lives if they chose.

"It was just a blessing when she went," said her husband Alan.

Like First Lady Betty Ford, Mrs. Berg had a cancerous breast removed. But unlike Mrs. Ford, it was not enough to stop the spread of the disease.

Her days and nights became 24-hour cycles of pain and she found herself wishing for death. When it did not come, she locked herself in an El Cajon motel room and swallowed 22 Seconal capsules in a desperate try at suicide. It failed when a maid found her in the room, barely conscious, but still alive.

After that, Mrs. Berg began campaigning for what she called "the right to die." Before long, the Berg home was virtually flooded with sympathetic mail from throughout the world.

There were also suggestions on how to successfully commit suicide and even pills and recipes for potions guaranteed by the letter writer to "work better the second time around."

Still in agony, she wrote letters of her own to local, state and federal legislators, including President and Mrs. Ford.

Alan Berg said most to whom she petitioned for her "right to die" were sympathetic, but offered no support.

Her one-woman campaign collapsed in the last two months as her vision blurred beyond use.

Nevertheless, her efforts still gained a measure of success, said her husband.

"She made people more aware of death, more aware of what people in her condition are going through," he said.

Asked if he would campaign for the legislation his wife sought, he replied: "I don't know. I still have to get my own life back on an even keel."

Appalachian Commission bill may face Ford veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees have agreed on a compromise bill extending the 13-state Appalachian Regional Commission for four more years, but it may face a presidential veto.

An impasse which had bottled up the bill for months was broken Tuesday when House conferees yielded to a Senate proposal to expand seven smaller but similar regional commissions.

The Senate conferees, in exchange, agreed to go along with the four-year extension proposed by the House. The Senate's original bill only called for a two-year extension.

The commission, created in 1965 as a major antipoverty program of the administration of President Lyndon B. Johnson, needs the legislation to stay in existence.

Its legislative authority expired last June 30, and it has been kept alive only through a congressional resolution which also expires on Dec. 31.

The decision to expand the seven other regional commissions, plus the decision of conferees to pave the way toward creation of four new such commissions, could spell a presidential veto, according to some commission officials.

"As I see it, there's only a 50-50 chance at this time that President Ford will not veto it," said one ARC official who asked not to be identified.

While Ford has publicly called for Congress to act promptly to extend the life of the Appalachian unit, he reportedly opposes authorizing additional funds for the other commissions.

They are the New England, Coastal Plains, Ozarks, Upper Great Lakes, Four Corners, Old West and Pacific Northwest regional commissions. The action of the conferees would give them expanded authority and increase their total budget to $200 million in the current fiscal year and $250 million in the next fiscal year.

This is a substantial increase from the some $50 million spent on them in the previous fiscal year. The conferees also authorized the creation of new regional commissions for the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, the Mexican-border area of Texas and the Mexican-border area of California.

The smaller commissions are all under the jurisdiction of the Commerce Department, while the ARC is an independent federal-state partnership of states stretching from New York to Mississippi.

The compromise bill would also make some major structural changes in the commission and would require that a majority of the 13 governors of member states be present in person before the commission can act on any major policy questions.

These changes were prompted by congressional criticism that the 13 governors were not taking an active enough role in commission business.

Appendectomy halts tour of singer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Bette Midler is listed in satisfactory condition after an emergency appendectomy and a spokesman says the hospitalization will delay an upcoming tour.

Miss Midler was taken to the hospital Monday from a rehearsal for her upcoming tour and underwent surgery that night, doctors said Tuesday.

She was set to begin the concert tour Dec. 10 but has delayed it until Dec. 21, according to her manager, Aaron Russo.

Classic pattern: sons in dad's footsteps

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The classic cartoon shows a father with one arm around his son and the other pointing to a giant factory, with the caption, "Son, someday all of this will be yours."

In the case of Army recruiting Sgt. Jim Thomas, all he could do was offer his sons olive drab uniforms, combat boots and eight weeks at basic training.

It was enough.

Sons Reginald, 18, and David, 17, enlisted Tuesday for three-year hitches.

"Actually, we've been thinking about the military since we were kids," said Reginald. Not hard to imagine, what with dad coming home from the office every day in his dress blues.

The teen-agers said they weren't sure whether they'd make the Army a career but both said they wanted to emerge with useful skills. David is headed for aircraft mechanic's school and Reginald aims at learning military communications.

"Believe me, there was absolutely no arm-twisting on my part," said dad. "I think they made the right decision," he said.

Ford, Kissinger soothing Israel in flap over promise to veto talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are seeking to soothe Israeli officials after a flap developed between the two governments over a reported U.S. promise to veto Palestinian participation in Middle East talks.

Sources said Kissinger made the promise "in principle" by telephone last Friday night to Israel's Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, with a qualification that any veto first would have to be approved by the White House.

But the next day, the United Sates gave its support in the United Nations to a compromise agreement extending the U.N. observer force mandate in the Golan Heights for six months while paving the way for Palestine Liberation Organization participation in talks on the over-all Mideast situation to be held by the Security Council in January.

Ford and Kissinger, in China, sent messages to Israeli leaders in a move to reassure them of U.S. intentions. Kissinger's message to Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon invited him here early in January to coordinate strategy for the Security Council's talks next month.

Ford's message to Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin assured him that the U.S. position on the Palestine Liberation Organization has not changed and telling him that the United States acted in the United Nations to assure the continuation of the U.N. observer force on the Golan Heights.

In describing U.S.-Israeli communications before the U.N. vote, sources said the Kissinger promise was confirmed Saturday in discussions between U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan and Chaim Herzog, the Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, as the Security Council debated various proposals to extend the observer force.

Moynihan, responding to this account of a Kissinger veto promise to Dinitz, said, "That's just a misunderstanding."

The apparent U.S. turnabout on Saturday caused bitterness between the Israeli and American governments, which agreed last September as part of the Sinai accord to "consult fully" and try to coordinate their positions on the PLO issue.

In Jerusalem, Rabin's Labor government defeated a no-confidence motion made because of the U.S. support for the U.N. resolution including the Palestinians in future peace efforts.

The right-wing Likud bloc filed the motion, charging that Rabin's policy of trusting American diplomacy had failed. Parliament voted the move down 57 to 31.

Israel has vowed never to deal with the organization that has waged guerrilla warfare with the Jewish state.

The Man's Shop

Fire us or work us, renewal unit tells city

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Pomona redevelopment commissioners, ired at an eight-month snub from City Council, today urged councilmen to either fire them or give them something to do.

Redevelopment Commission Chairman Charles Stillinger read the letter to commissioners Ollamae Canfield, Walter Arnold and Robert Ragsdale at the group's Wednesday night meeting — the first such meeting in eight months.

Commissioners unanimously endorsed Stillinger's letter and ordered copies of it delivered to city councilmen today.

Morale on the commission is extremely low. Stillinger said, since the City Council, which also acts as the official redevelopment agency, has avoided the commission since last March. Commissioners form an advisory body which is expected to recommend action to City Council — the only body empowered to approve redevelopment projects.

Stillinger said all five commission members are serving expired terms and none has been reappointed.

Another point of anger expressed by commissioners was City Council's action naming a new developer for property across from Civic Center on the northwest corner of Garey Avenue and Mission Boulevard. Stillinger said the commission, which is supposed to be an advisory body to the council in all redevelopment matters, was not even consulted on that vital downtown redevelopment project.

Commissioners also strongly suggested that city councilmen should ask commission help in selecting a fulltime, city-paid redevelopment director.

Search for a director now is underway. Stillinger said such a position is so important, that the city should be willing to pay from $10,000 to $20,000 more annually for such a director than the approximate $30,000 suggested "to attract the highest caliber and best person in the field."

Stillinger also outlined plans which would pump city redevelopment funds into Indian Hill Village at Indian Hill Boulevard and Holt Avenue.

Questioned by Mrs. Canfield on why city money should be used for a privately owned center, Stillinger explained that new owners of the shopping center do not want to sink more money into the project. But Sears Roebuck & Co., and Zody's which own the property on which they operate stores, are willing to spend funds to improve the center if other funds are available, too.

Stillinger said improvements at the center would attract other businesses.

"There are tenants there now whose leases are up for renewal and they may pull out if there is no assurance of improvements," Stillinger said.

Attracting new business there would measurably broaden Pomona's tax base, he said.

Such an outlay would not alter plans for the blighted downtown area, but could be accomplished more rapidly than the more complex downtown redevelopment project, he said.

Back to the City Council dispute. Stillinger said the strongly worded letter was an attempt to do something to make city councilmen "sit up and take notice."

Neither Mayor Ray Lepire nor City Administrator Jerrold Gonce were available for comment on the commission letter. Both are in Washington, D.C., attending a conference.

Hard-pressed O-M district decides against tax election

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN
PB Staff Writer

In spite of the fact that the Ontario-Montclair School District faces a deficit of $1.1 million next year, the board of trustees voted 3-2 Thursday against calling for a base revenue election.

The 50-member Citizens School Finance Advisory Committee, after a three-month study, had recommended to the trustees at the November meeting that the district hold a tax election as soon as possible.

Supt. Jack J. Jones said to the board Thursday, "Assuming basic increases of seven per cent for inflation and no new state funds, our only option is to increase income or face fairly drastic cuts."

The trustees debated the problem at length, expressing concern for the impact of a tax increase on the district residents.

"Does the community have resources in these times to pay increased taxes?" asked board member Reta Spencer. "Is this the right time for a tax election?"

Member Clifford Donaldson said the tax increase at present was predicted on "an assumption" that the district won't be able to meet its expenses by sharp cuts in activities.

Board President Richard Pearson urged the base revenue election.

"We predicate the budget on not getting additional funds," he said. "I think we're going to be in a real dire straits unless we get the tax override. We must reduce the budget by $1.1 million next year. This will mean many personnel cuts, program cuts and other reductions."

Sam Di Giovanni opposed the override.

"I'm for good education," he said, "but I'm not sure the taxpayers should be asked for more money until we have cut until it hurts." He then moved that a tax override election not be voted "at this time."

Donaldson seconded the motion and they were joined by Mrs. Spencer in the yes vote, opposed by Pearson and Rose Kelber.

During the conference session of the meeting, the trustees agreed with one proposal by the Citizens School Finance Advisory Committee: to explore the unification of the school districts within the Ontario-Montclair School District. A committee will be formed to assess the educational program, community identity, and the financial advantages and disadvantages of unification.

The trustees had an hour-long, often heated debate over adopting the program of affirmative action, described by the state's Equal Employment Opportunities Commission as "those planned activities designed to actively and aggressively seek and hire persons of minority, racial and ethnic backgrounds, and women."

Affirmative action details an employer's commitment to make a more formal and specific effort to recruit qualified and qualifiable people among racial and ethnic minority groups in order to have the employer's staff proportionately reflect the racial and ethnic composition of the community it serves.

Di Giovanni objected to the measure on the grounds that such considerations in hiring might mean the best qualified people would not be chosen.

Affirmative action was adopted, 4-1, Di Giovanni dissenting.

Boost city's image

School board joins in 'Discover Pomona'

The Pomona school board will provide $3,400 in support of a "Discover Pomona" program formulated by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the program, as explained by chamber director Al Smith at Tuesday's school board meeting, is to create a new and positive image for the city by stressing its strengths.

Pomona Community Relations Coordinator Clarence Webb, who participated in the presentation of the program to the school board, said it was planned to be launched in mid-December and stretch into "a 10-month campaign of selling our community."

He said it was the intent of a Discover Pomona Task Force, made up of community leaders, to gain public attention for the campaign in December and then introduce Pomona as a "City of Neighborhoods" in January.

This activity is to be carried on through an extensive advertising campaign utilizing newspaper advertisements, radio announcements, billboards, bumper stickers and posters.

Moving through the following months, stress would be placed on the city's business and industry, its legal and real estate strengths, its financial and professional assets, neighborhood cleanup, city beautiful, the Bicentennial (in July), Pomona as a multicultural city of the world, its educational opportunities and winding up in October with a summary.

Webb said through the year, contacts with the public would be bilingual and possibly some of the literature would be printed in Chinese so they could be read by the new Vietnamese residents.

Smith said the budget for the entire program is $17,000 and is to be shared by various community agencies. He said the program had the endorsement of the chamber board and the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

Approval by the school board was unanimous. Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services in the school district, is president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce.

In written material on the program presented the school board by the chamber it was explained that "The Task Force on Community Image sincerely believes that formation of a new community image is of prime importance.

"The task Force feels that Discover Pomona will go a long way in changing that image and urges the board to support the effort. Approximately 20 per cent of the program will deal with education."

PB Editor Joseph A. Gendron is chairman of the Community Image Task Force.

Martinez will emcee Yule parade

Bill Martinez, nighttime personality on KWOW radio in Pomona, will be master of ceremonies of the 23rd annual Pomona Christmas parade Saturday.

The parade, built around the theme "America's Bicentennial Christmas," will begin at 6 p.m. and proceed east along Holt Avenue from Huntington Boulevard to Palomares Street.

Martinez will be positioned next to the judges stand. His descriptions and comments will be recorded by students from Cal Poly Pomona and turned over to Theta Cable Television, which will photograph the parade, for release at a later time.

Martinez emceed the Hollywood Christmas parade last year, and has been master of ceremonies at numerous Christmas parades throughout Southern California.

Mickey Mouse will be the grand marshal of the parade which is expected to run about 90 minutes.

Boys Club to hold car wash

The Pomona Boys Club will hold a car wash Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The wash will be at the club house, 1374 S. Garey Ave. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of pots and pans for cooking classes, socks for the basketball team and material for the sewing class.

Holiday food drive for area needy begins

Pomona's Christmas Basket Clearance Bureau, sponsored by the Pomona Community Coordinating Council in cooperation with the Salvation Army Corps, opened this week.

It is housed in the Salvation Army Building at 454 W. Orange Grove Ave., and is open daily from 9:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Purpose of the bureau, according to Mrs. June Hyman, project chairman, is to provide holiday food for needy families living in the community.

Work is done in conjunction with Santa Claus, Inc., which provides toys for children in these families.

Mrs. Hyman said that those who wish to make donations may mail checks to the Christmas Basket Clearance Bureau, P.O. Box 2562, Pomona, or deliver food items to the Salvation Army office.

Those in the community who are aware of families who need help may make these referrals to the bureau. When referring a family the volunteers need to know its address, the number of children in the family, their ages, and the reasons for need.

If there are individuals or organizations in the community that would like to provide Christmas for a needy family they may receive the name of a family from the bureau.

Volunteers package the food that is contributed and deliver it to the home where it is needed on Christmas Eve.

Acting like officer? man is arrested

A Baldwin Park man has been arrested by sheriff's deputies who charged that he had a radio in his car capable of receiving police and fire calls, a light resembling that of an emergency vehicle and a sound system capable of producing a siren-like sound.

The man, Ronald Joseph Legault, 24, a private patrol service employe, was arrested Tuesday in San Gabriel Canyon near the Rincon Ranger Station by deputies summoned there by U.S. Forest Service ranger Steve C. Williamson. Williamson said he had noticed the car on several occasions in the canyon area with an amber light operating in its rear window. The car also was equipped with push-bars on its front end and resembled an unmarked police vehicle, deputies said.

It is a violation of a county ordinance to have a mobile radio receiver of that type in a car, deputies said, and violations of the state Vehicle Code to have emergency vehicle lights and a siren on a car.

Pomona driver hurt in crash

A young woman motorist suffered facial and head injuries Wednesday night in a two-car traffic collision at Mission Boulevard west of Palomares Street in Pomona, police reported.

The victim, Rebecca L. Barela, 19, 1407 W. Phillips Blvd., was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where she was reported in fair condition today.

Police reported that the other driver involved in the collision, Kenneth L. Ottrix, 17, 632 Tangier Ave., Pomona, was unhurt.

Patty Hearst's attorney discounts harmful effects of pretrial publicity

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Patty Hearst's chief attorney doesn't think the pretrial publicity will especially affect her case.

"Newspaper publicity is not as influential as it was 15 years ago," F. Lee Bailey told an overflow audience in Claremont Wednesday afternoon.

In a panel program sponsored by Claremont Men's College at Garrison Theater, Bailey said he has no fear of publicity making it impossible to select qualified jurors for the two trials facing Miss Hearst.

"On the other hand," Bailey added "if I find a prospective juror who claims to never have heard of Patty Hearst, I'll throw him out for perjury."

Bailey explained that he is honoring speaking commitments made before he became head of the defense team for the heiress. He added that he, personally, only supervises trial preparations until the last two weeks when he will devote his full efforts to preparing the defense.

"I hope to find jurors who can learn rapidly, because they will need to assimilate a great deal of information in a compacted period of time," Bailey said.

Bailey said he has no intention of seeking bail for Miss Hearst, adding "I have no place to put her. What would I do with her?"

"She's been kidnaped once and there have been many threats against her. She's better off with the security offered in jail."

Speaking of Miss Hearst's present state of mind, Bailey said she is no more depressed than anyone might be under such conditions and accusations.

She has willingly, and to his mind, honestly, answered every question he has asked her, the attorney said.

He added that Patty's parents, along with lawyers and doctors, are frequent visitors. When not occupied with guests, the heiress crochets and busies herself with other relaxing activities.

Bailey brushed aside questions as to whether brainwashing would be a part of the defense.

"But brainwashing is tough to dispute," Bailey said. "Any human being can be brainwashed by his captors, as was well proved by the military.

"The fact that a healthy 19-year-old girl with no previous mental problems was kidnaped cannot be denied," he said. "Whether she has induced insanity — which is not the same as insanity — is another question.

"Fear is the strongest drive. Captives classically do what their captors wish — just to stay alive. The captor can turn a person into what ever he wants and make him do what he desires because the victim is in a never-never land with no place to go."

When asked about Los Angeles County Dist. Atty. John Van de Camp's stand that plea bargaining should be abolished, Bailey said "Don't vote for a man who wants to abolish bargaining."

He explained that plea bargaining was useful and resulted in the "reasonable settlement" of many criminal cases. Bailey further cited already overcrowded courts and inadequate numbers of prosecuting lawyers as reasons for the bargaining.

Attorneys are frequently eager to bargain, Bailey added.

"Lawyers are terrified that juries will make mistakes," said Bailey who has been both a defense attorney in many prominent cases and the defendent himself in a Florida mail fraud case.

Bailey praised former Supreme Court Justice William Douglas but said that if offered, he would have turned down the appointment to the Supreme Court.

"Besides, I would never have cleared the Senate," he said.

Energy parks have benefits

The only certainty in the uncertain energy situation is that Americans will be using more energy tomorrow than they do today. And given the shift away from natural gas and oil, more and more of that energy will be in the form of electricity produced from coal and-or uranium.

The Edison Electric Institute, a national trade association of electric utilities, predicts that while total energy consumption will grow by 3 per cent over the next 25 years, consumption of electricity will go up at nearly double that rate — anywhere from 5.3 to 5.8 per cent a year. This is a "moderate" estimate.

Often overlooked is the fact that not only will we be using more power, we will be using more land on which to build plants to generate that power. Because of this, an idea increasingly being discussed by planners in and out of government is the "energy park."

This is the concentration of several power plants in a small and relatively remote geographical area, in contrast to the traditional practice of scattering them all over a state or region, usually in or near crowded cities where land and water are now scarce and costly to develop. Power from energy park plants would be transmitted great distances over very high-voltage lines.

In Pennsylvania, where the idea seems to be farther along than elsewhere, four large utility companies are promoting public discussion of a scheme for an energy park that would feature a combination of coal-fired and nuclear plants.

According to project manager John Seager, the park approach offers such advantages as standardized engineering and construction and employment of a stable labor force, as well as efficient land use. These factors "can potentially reduce the installed cost of new plants by 10 or 15 per cent," he says.

There are objections to the energy park concept. Many people are opposed to nuclear plants — period. Even with conventional plants, say some critics, vast quantities of waste heat and water would be produced that could result in adverse environmental effects. Others oppose the spreading of pollution, or the threat of pollution, to rural areas now free of it.

On the other hand, some of the by-products of energy production have exciting possibilities. Waste heat or water, for example, could be tapped by huge greenhouses. This is already being done in the Soviet Union where greenhouses in Leningrad utilize heat from power plants for the raising of vegetables.

Whatever the energy park's benefits or drawbacks, the Pennsylvania promoters realize that public support of the idea is as essential as financial backing. Thus they have been crisscrossing the state, speaking and listening to citizen groups at nearly a dozen potential sites.

"It is no longer advantageous for governments or corporations or other institutions to do their planning in a back room," Seager points out. "People want a hand in shaping their own destiny."

Nuclear initiative

Dear Editor:

Next June the people of California will vote upon a ballot initiative which could very well increase California unemployment and industrial potential by unacceptable magnitudes. By means of misrepresentation and chicanery, enough signatures were obtained from unsuspecting Californians to qualify the Nuclear Power Initiative for a place on the June ballot.

Arguments for the proposition will not inform you of the heavy rate increases which would occur without nuclear electrical generation. Neither will the arguments remind you of the industrial dependence upon reasonable electrical costs.

The initiative arguments will conjure all of the imagined safety problems which nuclear power will present — none of which have ever been experienced — and none of which have not been explored and controlled.

An article in the prestigious Forbes magazine of September 1975 aptly describes the anti-nuclear technique of preying on inherent fears and ignorance to deprive Americans of the economy and utility of nuclear power generation.

In asking the question: "Who benefits from the anti-nuclear position?", the only answer is: Our competitors! All of the European economy is presently at work to provide nuclear power generation for their systems. Iran (the oil capital of the world) is investing heavily in nuclear reactors. Ralph Nader and his fear-merchants will have no voice in the decisions of Iran, France, Russia, England, Canada, India or any other government who has opted for the benefits and longevity of nuclear power. So, who gains? Not America; not California — you can bet on that!

Unfortunately, certain segments of our people have embarked on a course of denigration of anything which will build or enhance the American posture in the world. Defense has been ridiculed and reduced, government itself has been maligned and insulted, security has been compromised, and even our religious practices have known the encroachment of the libertine and his atheist tools.

The nuclear power initiative is but another gambit in a game with one overall motive: To strip America of all that would keep her strong, and to reduce her to the estate of emasculated ineffectiveness. — C. L. Bryant, Pomona.

Officers reassigned

Dear Editor:

With all the clamor in your paper recently about crime in Pomona, I thought you and your readers would be interested in how the people who run the Police Department choose to respond to it.

The Pomona Police Force presently has six traffic officers whose primary task is the enforcement of traffic laws and the handling of traffic accidents. In addition they are called upon to assist the two man "beat" units when necessary. These officers also perform such vital services as first aid to accident victims. As of December 1, 1975, all six of these officers have been reassigned to two man patrol units on a permanent basis. As a result of this we will no doubt soon hear how police patrols have been increased in response to the rising crime rate. In reality what we have is a game of musical chairs, taking officers from one important job and assigning them to another.

If juggling of personnel in such a fashion is the best response we can expect from those in charge, then obviously it's time for some reshuffling at the top. Speaking as one whose child was struck by a speeding motorist and would not be alive today but for quick and courageous action by one of these same traffic officers, I can only feel anger and disgust at the callous and highhanded attitude of those who have taken such foolish action.

If Pomona needs more policemen, then hire them. And, if there are some policemen who can't cut it, get rid of them and hire some who can. But don't give the public a false sense of security by making them think they will be getting more and better police service when in reality they will be getting less. One need only use a little common sense to realize that having two man patrol units responding to traffic accidents and writing speeding tickets, jobs that are now done by the one man traffic units, is going to spread them out thinner than they are now: Nice going, Captain. — Norman Gallagher, Pomona

Answer to women's lib

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter published recently from N.O.W.

Being divorced with two small children and self-supporting is not easy. However, there has never been a problem or crisis I was unable to overcome once I confronted it honestly and logically.

Especially getting a fulfilling job and receiving a deserving paycheck. To obtain this goal, just as any man does, a woman must strive for that desired position.

Too many women's libbers want progress positions in society handed to them. They aren't willing to work for their positions. They're too eager to blame their own failures or disappointments on "discrimination."

I'm thoroughly convinced that the women doing the complaining about equal rights and equal pay are simply not qualified, skilled or as capable as the men that they are competing with. If they worked as hard at and were as dedicated to their jobs as they are to their liberation movement they would own their own company.

Being a woman is a beautiful blessing and for me it has been advantageous to building my career. I work a fulltime secretarial job and operate and own my own typesetting business.

Both positions are successful because I work hard to maintain a good business practice with my employers and my customers. I'm treated with consideration and respect.

After spending the past three years playing the male and the female role in the home, I can sincerely say that the male has, by far, the largest abundance of pressure and responsibility.

Most women's libbers only criticize the male responsibility role. How many are qualified to discuss or delete that position?

The N.O.W. spokesman complained that there aren't any real men left around. Let's try standing behind a few men, instead of on their toes. Letter signed but named withheld by request.

Just in jest

Back around 1860, when California's State Capitol was built, the original cost was $2.5 million. Today a partial reconstruction program is being planned for that old building — reconstruction which will cost nearly $40 million.

But why go all the way back to 1860 to get the bad news about the buying power of the American dollar? Let's see what has happened during only the past 20 years. — Just for starters, if you were making $10,000 a year in 1955, you are probably making $32,000 this year. — The home you bought for $20,000 in 1955 will cost you $58,200 today. — Your Federal taxes have increased 365 percent since 1955. — And no for the cruelest blow of all! Your State taxes are up 1,233 percent.

Once it was something of an achievement to be pointed out as a millionaire, but the way inflation is now taking over, in no time at all millionaires aren't going to be worth a dime a dozen. — The 1955 dime, of course.

The strikes that hurt

Kansas City firemen setting fires! Almost inconceivable.

And striking firemen threatened violence against anybody who dared help put out fires during their strikes!

The selfishness — the callous disregard of the rights of others which is characteristic of all strikes — is brought most sharply into focus when the strikers are firemen or lawmen.

Has it occurred to you that all strikes are for the purpose of doing damage?

In any other situation an attempt to gain an advantage by doing harm to others is called "a crime." Yet the striker "harms others" legally.

This logic might have escaped me had Kansas City's striking firemen not been accused of arson.

Like you, I have been indoctrinated over the years with acceptance of "the strike" as a defense of an underdog against an upperdog. Therefore, it is legal, permissible and moral.

But when a mailman goes on strike and damages our vital lines of communication with one another, who is the upperdog?

The striking garbage man or mailman is damaging the people whose taxes finance the job which he chose for himself.

Surely the authors of the Wagner Labor Act and other legislation supporting the workers' "right to strike" never imagined that their law would be used by doctors.

They intended to prevent the exploitation of "labor" by the giants of industry.

In the generations since, most of the "giants" have been replaced by publicly held corporations of stockholders where any worker can "share the wealth" merely by purchasing stock in the company for which he works.

But that requires that he also share any company losses.

So most workers instead demand contracts which provide more money even if financially the company is going backward.

And the people who get hurt when the company goes bust include all "laborers," even those front-office workers who frequently work longer hours than those on the production line.

Yet if the strike, as a negotiation weapon, is legal, surely there must be some distinction when the strikers jeopardize the public safety.

When you accept a job as policeman, fireman, soldier or lighthouse keeper, it seems to me you forfeit certain freedoms. The very nature of those jobs requires that you do not desert your post — no matter what.

Any fireman whose primary interest is money is in the wrong job to start with.

...And all the ships at sea

WASHINGTON — When Walter Winchell died in 1972, he left behind a collection of last gripes and reminiscenses. These have just been published by Prentice-Hall.

"Winchell Exclusive," as the book is called, recalled for me one of the unforgettable characters of my early muckraking years.

Winchell was a New York City urchin, on his own at 13. By 19, he was a song-and-dance man on the Orpheum circuit. He entered "newspapering" as an indefatigable ad salesman and collector of show biz items for an obscure Tin Pan Alley rag.

Out of it all — the clickety-clack of iron wheels on endless rails, the one-night stands on a thousand Main Streets, the tense, terse pace of Manhattan and its gladiators — Winchell got into his bones an instinct for the rhythm, the sense of expectancy, the titillations and gut interests that moved America during the second third of this century.

He carved out for himself a beat at which the threads of mass interest intersected: Broadway, Hollywood, Gangland, G-men, spies, night club "souse-iety" and the emotional fever zones of national politics — FDR, anti-Hitlerism, anti-communism.

With a dot, dot, dot to separate subjects, he would dash from international cataclysms to trivial gossip; he knew that there were millions out there who really wanted to know that Mr. and Mrs. so-and-so were "infanticipating."

To this beat he brought a new style, a staccato delivery, yet a voice so artistically honed as to be able instantly to shift into a mellow, one-on-one intimacy.

To fit his frantic pace, he coined new words: "debutramp," "playbore," "swelegant," "Chicagorilla." And he created and image he never tired of playing — the brash, shirt-sleeved, cigarette-drooping, hat-pushed back, Front Page newsshark, pounding a telegraph key, racing the clock.

When things got dull at the Stork Club around 4 a.m., he would prowl the streets in his car, tracking the calls on his special police radio. The echo of the siren was in his phrases. Above all, he gave daily answers to the big question — "What's going to happen tomorrow?"—which moved his generation much as ours turns on "What went wrong yesterday?"

Winchell and his era are put in focus by a fascinating introduction to the book written by the noted newsman and personality, Ernest Cuneo. Winchell's street-educated mind, Cuneo says, was narrow but almost preternaturally incisive.

On a chance encounter with the British ambassador in the days before Munich, WW asked: "What is Great Britain going to do about Hitler?"

"We shall try to fatten the tiger without strengthening him."

Winchell snorted: "I've seen some big tigers and some little tigers, but I've never seen a fat one," his next column capsuled the coming world tragedy in two Winchellian sentences: "Britain will marry Hitler in the fall. The marriage will blow up in a world war."

In his heyday, Winchell is said to have reached 9 out of 10 Americans by radio and to have had 50 million readers for his daily columns. His ego exceeded even his circulation.

I was once imprisoned in a taxicab for 45 minutes with the great man; by the time we got out, I was almost asphyxiated from the nonstop litany of his triumphs over perfidious foes, his betrayals at the hands of ingrates, his prodigious benefactions to mankind.

For all the sharpness of his instincts, Winchell was content to stay on the surface of events. "He was not interested in the story, only the headline," Cuneo says.

My mentor, Drew Pearson, was Walter Winchell's great rival for top dogdom in the radio-newspaper whirl. Pearson, though a fierce competitor for the headline, was committed to the issue behind it. For him, the headline was just a skirmish in the unending battle of what he saw as the good cause against the bad.

For years, the two maintained friendly relations, watched each other like respectful hawks and often collaborated, or as Winchell said, "patty-caked" with one another.

When, in the late 1940s and early '50s, Pearson took on the whole snake pit of Red-hunting demagogues, the time came when McCarthy and his allies ganged up in retribution, pushed Pearson off the radio and threatened to destroy him.

Drew called Winchell and asked him to join the battle while there was still time. But the headlines were coming from the other side then. Winchell refused and ran with the McCarthyites until their string ran out.

Cuneo, who was close to both, compares them in an apt metaphor: Winchell was a racehorse; Pearson was a war horse. But taking Winchell as he was, what a race horse!

"Winchell Exclusive" recaptures the flavor of a time gone by, a time of preposterous spectacles, sizzling feuds, ignoble follies and noble struggles.

Ann Landers

Easy, or you'll scare him off

Dear Ann Landers: I've read a lot about E.S.P. and I'm positive I have it. I have feelings about things before they happen. For example, I will start thinking about a friend I haven't seen in ages, then I'll run into her the next day. Often I have a feeling the doorbell (or telephone) will ring, especially just before I get into the shower. It invariably happens. When I dream about people getting into accidents, it scares me because I know they are slated for bad luck.

This gift has been with me a long time. When I was in school I could tell what people were thinking even before they spoke. Once I read a boy's mind on a date and slapped his face. He was amazed, but he verified my extra-sensory perception.

I have been receiving strong messages that a certain man who has asked me out only twice would be the ideal husband. I'm 28 and ready to get married. Shall I cut through the game-playing and tell him? —A Girl With Something Extra

Dear Girl: I have only five senses and I'm not too sure about them. But my common sense tells me it wouldn't be smart to lay such a load on a young man after only two dates. So keep quiet, Buttercup, or you'll scare him off.

— The perfect Christmas gift — ANN LANDERS SPEAKS OUT — $1.50, a collection of her best columns over the years. —

Dear Ann Landers: I trust you, which is more than I can say for most people these days.

I'm getting on in years and am realistic about life and death. I'm a woman who has worked hard, never cared for luxury and lived modestly. To outsiders I appear "comfortable."

I have no family and I want to leave what I have to charity. How can I make sure the money will be used properly?

One reads so much in the newspapers about high-class crooks and swindlers who cheat respectable charities, not to mention the so-called "worthy causes" which are actually schemes dreamed up by fourflushers.

I want the money I leave to help people who can't help themselves. I'd like the names of a few honest places that need funds. If you vouch for them, Ann, that's good enough for me. — M. G. Of N.Y.

Dear M. G.: I know of many — but will suggest three. The Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago, Ill. 60611; The Society for the Rehabilitation of the Facially Disfigured, 550 First Avenue, N.Y. 10016, and The Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, New York University Medical Center, 400 East 34th Street, N.Y. 10016.

Dear Ann Landers: Is this a sex problem, a health problem or a psychiatric problem?

My husband takes off all his clothes the minute he comes home from work. He walks around stark naked and has even answered the doorbell with a newspaper in front of him.

We have a breezeway that separates the house from the garage. He sits out there nude and reads. Sometimes he goes into the garage naked to work on his car. I'm scared to death the neighbors will see him and call the police.

Our two sons (11 and 14) refuse to bring friends home from school because their dad goes around like this. I wouldn't dream of inviting any women over after 5 p.m. He says it's his house and he believes in being "comfortable." What's with him? — Wife Of Nature Boy

Dear Wife: Sounds like a psychiatric problem to me. But if he won't put on clothes he won't go for help, so my advice is to keep the shades down. He can't get arrested so long as he stays in his own home.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged by Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Dr. Miller

Squirrels usually free from disease

DEAR DR. MILLER: We've noticed some grey squirrels in the park near us are getting bolder lately. I guess they're hungrier. Our dog is leashed, so can't chase them but would like to. Because we're in the area frequently, though, I was a little concerned about our dog, or maybe even us, picking up some kind of infections from them? Haven't I heard grey squirrels are bad for carring infections to people and to pets? —A.E.

DEAR A.E.: Wild mamals, modest-sized mostly, can and do carry bacterial, rickettisial and viral diseases which may be of importance to pets and people. Fortunately, however, that bouncing urban upstart the grey squirrel, is, generally speaking, remarkably free of these potentially dangerous diseases. Except under rare circumstances, grey squirrels couldn't be considered a hazard to human (or pet) health.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My cat's suddenly developed this thing for buttered stone-ground bread. The butter I can see maybe, but bread? It seems so dumb. Cats can't even digest cereal, can they? —T.T.

DEAR T.T.: Cereal? Certainly cats can digest it. In fact, it would frequently be an advantage for felines to consume a greater protion of it in their diet. The problem is, few felines can be persuaded to consume cereal in any form.

DEAR DR. MILLER: We were shocked when the doctor, on a routine examination, found our dog had a severe ear infection. She's a sweet, brave, dear old girl, too stoical it seems, since she never gave us any indication her ear was bothering her. For future reference, is there some simple way lay persons can tell whether or not a too-brave dog has a bad ear? —L.B.

DEAR L.B.: It's true most owners become aware of the dog's ear problem when it registers pain by shaking the head, holding it to one side, or pawing gingerly at the ear itself. Aside from pain, the acutely inflamed ear will be much redder on the inside from its normal counterpart. The long-standing ear problem can usually be detected by odor or discharge or, in the canal particularly, "dirty" appearance.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Because you're a doctor, I know you can straighten my wife out on this. Whenever she takes one of our animals in to the veterinarian which is often, she writes a big letter about what's wrong with it. Then she has another page with questions to ask the doctor about the animal. She thinks he needs all that and that it helps. If I were the doctor it would be a pain in the neck to have to read all that. Who's right? — D.I.

DEAR D.I.: Coming in equipped with a concise history on the patient plus specific questions you want answered can be very useful. If the history of the illness is not concise, it becomes progressively less useful and can defeat its own purpose. A properly presented written history and a list of questions relating to it is extremely useful to the doctor and staff, and may well save time, money, and effort in diagnosing and treating the patient.

The extreme opposite of the rambling letter writer is the client who thinks the doctor and his staff should be smart enough to ask all the right questions or, perhaps even none at all and still come up eventually with the proper diagnosis. This game-playing client is shorting himself and his pet in the long run.

Cost of raising child—$100,000

Figures have just been released that the cost of raising a child these days is running close to $100,000.

"Can you believe it?" I asked my husband. "That little number propped up in front of the TV set is costing us $100,000."

We both looked at our youngest son draped over a chair. From the back he looked like Goldie Hawn. His jeans were ripped at the knee. His shoestrings were knotted and threaded into every other loop. A faded T-shirt with the arms cut out covered his chest and he balanced a bowl of cereal, an empty ice cream carton, and a quart of milk on the edge of the chair.

"What's the matter?" asked my husband. "Are we behind in the payments or something?"

"No, it's just that it's expensive raising kids."

"But one hundred thou . . . " he kept repeating.

"Take catsup," I said. "That model consumes two family-sized bottles of catsup a week. Over a 12-month period that amounts to $76.96 . . . or in a 20-year-period $1,539.20."

"I had no idea . . . "

"And that's only one small item. There are clothes, repairs, upkeep, insurance. Why just the care and feeding of his hair . . . "

"Hold it! He hasn't had a haircut in years."

"Precisely, but the grooming needs — shampoo, creme rinse, protein builder, split ends protector, dandruff fighter, dry scalp conditioner, hot comb and blower — run about $2,000 a year, not to mention the 40 gallons of hot water he uses everytime he takes a shower to wash it."

"Two thousand . . . "

"Transporting a child through 20 years is probably the largest expense beginning with his delivery and continuing on through school buses, bicycles, car pools, motor bikes and eventually a car of his own."

"What about feet!"

"We have to protect our investment."

"Wait a minute!" said my husband. "Let me get this straight. We have a $100,000 investment that isn't self-supporting, that we can't borrow on, use as collateral, can't refinance, draw interest on, is a lousy tax shelter and takes 20 some years to mature. What good is it?"

"Remember when we were burgled last month?"

He nodded.

"We had $100,000 worth of assets asleep in the bedroom and they passed him right by."

"It would have served 'em right," he grumbled.

Future bride close to home

How far away from your own house did your matrimonial mate live when you first met that romantic party? Our Love and War man says most such couples resided within 20 blocks of each other. Or so it was shown in a study of marriage license applications in Philadelphia and New Haven. Do you realize what that means? If you are as yet unwed, odds are fifty-fifty that you can walk to the home of your future spouse in less than an hour.

Q. "Was there ever a case of a baby born with its face on the back of its head?"

A. Research turns up only one such. Edward Mordrake, the son of an aristocrat couple in Great Britain. Young Mordrake was able to see with eyes on the back of his head. His face also had lips, nose and ears, and he could laugh and cry, but neither eat nor speak. He was fed liquids. The record indicates he grew up to be likable and intelligent, but finally lost his mind, and died while under restraints as a mental patient.

Dr. Lamb

Diet for Crohn's Disease

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — After a thorough physical in the doctor's office and being hospitalized for five days for X rays and tests I was told I had Crohn's Disease and anemia. I was told to eat raw foods and bran etc. the same as your booklet on constipation. I get cramp attacks off and on.

I take Bentyl three times day, Konsyl twice a day — tried Trinsicon for a while but suffered severely with the worst constipation I ever had. I'm now on ferrous gluconate two to three times a day and feel much better. I also took high blood pressure medicine for years, but since my hospitalization the doctor said I have normal pressure and stopped the medication. Why did it come down?

Is there a special diet for Crohn's Disease?

DEAR READER — Crohn's Disease, also called regional enteritis, is an area of inflammation of the end of the small intestine, where it joins the colon. This is in the lower right side and that is why it is often confused with appendicitis. The inflammation causes a thick granular swelling which can lead to obstruction. The disease itself is fairly complicated. It tends to come and go in attacks, hence it is often hard to diagnose. An anemia frequently accompanies the disease, often because of problems in absorbing important vitamins and nutrients.

Constipation is caused by many factors and your's may not be related to your Crohn's disease. The use of bulk foods for constipation is usually the best approach. However, because of the Crohn's disease you may not tolerate some of these foods. Diarrhea is a more usual feature of Crohn's disease.

Usually the diet in regional enteritis avoids bulk, and emphasizes high protein, high calorie foods because of the absorption difficulties. Vitamin supplements are often helpful as is iron. I am not surprised that you feel better after taking ferrous gluconate (iron).

Your doctor may well need to try several different approaches to your diet before he can find out which works best for you with the combination of constipation and Crohn's Disease. I would suggest, though, that you avoid milk and all milk products. Why? Because patients with Crohn's disease usually do not tolerate the lactose double sugar in milk.

Consuming milk may precipitate an acute attack of regional ilietis. There is usually too much lactose in buttermilk and cottage cheese for them to be a suitable substitute either. Because you need calcium, and milk is the main source of it you may need to take some calcium supplements.

About your blood pressure, there is a tendency for pressure to vary. Some people have a rise in pressure in the office, but when the pressure is taken enough times the mechanism calms down, and the blood pressure falls. Bed rest also will lower blood pressure, usually because the person loses about five pounds of fluid. You should have your pressure checked again in the office now that you have returned to your usual life pattern.

Readers who want information on constipation can send in 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address your letter to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Friday, Dec. 5, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's good to be optimistic, but today you overdo it a bit and stamp "Mission Accomplished" on projects just begun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be careful today about telling little white lies. You'll have to fib again to cover your tracks. Things will balloon out of all proportion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If at all possible, try not to advise friends regarding their financial affairs today. It could complicate matters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A strong opinion you have probably will not be too popular today. It may only serve to turn others off.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you feel a little sluggish today, it's because you've been neglecting to exercise. A brisk walk could help.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Overindulgence is the main temptation you have to guard against today. Keep the old waistline in mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't spring any uninvited guests on your spouse today. The last thing that's desired is to entertain a houseful of people.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's better to talk face-to-face with someone you've hired for a special job. You want to be sure that they understand — to the letter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't pamper your yen to be extravagant. Back away from anything that even appears to be of an expensive nature today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Above all, don't put on pretentious airs to impress anyone today. If they don't accept you as you truly are, it will be their loss.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have a tendency today to embellish the facts. While you're trying to make others take notice, it may have the opposite effect.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Shy away from a pal who feels that what you have is his as well. He'd be the first to back off if the roles were reversed.

Your Birthday Dec. 5, 1975

Your chances of accumulating a little surplus this coming year are very good. You'll be even more motivated to acquire materially if you earmark the funds for something special.

Jacoby's bridge

Jim puts squeeze on

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is a hand that helped Jim Jacoby and Paul Allinger win the National men's pair championship back in 1956.

Jim sat South and passed over East's preemptive three-club opening. When Paul jumped to four hearts Jim used Blackwood four and five notrumps. Since the five notrump call guaranteed to Paul that they held all the aces, Paul jumped all the way to seven notrump to try for a real top score. Honors don't count in matchpoint duplicate, but 10 points extra for notrump does.

West opened the queen of diamonds and Jim saw that he had 12 top tricks and an automatic squeeze for the 13th. Only West could stop diamonds; only East could stop clubs. Proper timing would make it impossible for either one to stop spades.

He cashed the two top diamonds and clubs and ran off hearts. On the last heart lead, East had to chuck a spade to keep a high club. Then Jim discarded his last club. It had done its work. West also had to go down to two spades in order to keep dummy's deuce of diamonds from being a winner and Jim had three spade tricks and his top score.

Ask the Jacobys

Here is another question on the forcing two bid. This one is from New Mexico. Our correspondent wants to know how you play a suit two bid when you have a part score.

The answer is that you play it as a one-round force in case of a part score of 60 or more and as a force to game in case of lower part scores.

16-year clean record

Town has own anticrime formula

LYONS, Ind. (AP) — "Don't crowd people, especially young people. Be fair and you'll get along."

That's the anticrime formula of William O. Jackson, town marshal of Lyons, where there hasn't been so much as a break-in in 16 years.

Jackson, a 75-year-old retired railroad foreman and ex-cop in Kansas City, and his deputy have kept things quiet in this southwestern Indiana community of 700 persons. Recently, the town board gave Jackson a plaque in recogition of his record.

Jackson works from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week and "when the bell rings, I'm ready to go to work."

He said he can spot a stranger "in nothing flat. The fact not many people move around at night helps. Mischief is easier to spot."

The marshal, a widower with four children, also gets plenty of help from his deputy, Frank Manella, 59.

"We keep on the watch and that's about all we have to do," Manella said. "I've been with Jackson for 13 years, and things are real quiet here. That's the way we want it.

"We have a post office, hardware store, grocery store, restaurant, farm equipment store and some other businesses here, but there is no trouble."

Jackson, a native of Ottawa, Kan., blames hard times for the crime spiral elsewhere.

"Unemployment and high prices are two of the things that feed crime," he said. "The withouts are going to get what they want from the withs. It's as simple as that."

Time is an asset for the arthritic

By Becky Highstreet
Arthritis Foundation

As an arthritis sufferer, time is one of your greatest assets. Because arthritis is a long-term disease, this time element can be used to your advantage. Simplicity of effort and protection of joints — at limited expense — are probably your most immediate needs. You can use your spare time to help satisfy these necessities.

According to the Arthritis Foundation, the following hints can show you how to use that time wisely, through simplification of daily activities. However, it is important to note the aids do not preclude the need for a physician's care.

For a woman with arthritis, there are two tasks which are extremely difficult to undertake. Gallant attemps at curling your hair and putting on hose may be commendable, but there are ways to lessen that martyred feeling.

For instance, there is a specific type of curler that does not require the use of clips or pins. The curlers can even be managed with one hand. Just wrap them around the hair and they will attach themselves. The name to ask for is Velcro, but first call the department or variety store to find out if they carry the hair rollers.

Stockings create the problem of having to bend down to pull them on. A foam pad provides a friction surface which aids in getting the stocking all the way onto the foot. Simply rub your foot along the pad to force the stocking gently up. A stocking garter can also be used to speed up the process. Sew the corset garters on the ends of two long elastic tapes, hooking the garters to the tops of the stockings. Then, pull the stockings up with the tapes.

In many activities, limited reach is the biggest problem. A wood dowel is a versatile tool that will enable you to reach the back of your head while combing or brushing your hair.

A hole, about three-fourths of an inch thick, should be drilled down in the dowel. Epoxy or rubber cement should then be placed in the handle. Fit the comb inside the hole, and wait for it to dry.

When the glue has dried, the comb can be bent into a rounded position by heating it slightly. Just hold the comb about six inches above a low flame on a stove burner. The process only takes a few seconds.

Time is an asset you should use to the fullest extent. It offers you a chance to learn how to adjust to arthritis, and ways to make that adjustment a little simpler. Now is the time to take that opportunity.

Some of these hints are excerpts from a manual prepared by the Allied Health Professions Section of the Arthritis Foundation.

People in the news

Plight of aged kayoes tough-talking champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali has come to the rescue of the Hillside Aged Program.

At 9 a.m. Tuesday, the program was on the verge of being closed for lack of funds to serve its 54 handicapped elderly clients. At 9:30 a.m., director Maria Brown answered a knock on the door. It was Ali.

"I understand you need a lot of money to stay open," Mrs. Brown quoted the boxer as saying. "Why don't you stay open. I'll give it to you."

News reports had said the center needed $100,000 for the next year and had been unable to get government aid. Social worker Frances Adler said Ali mentioned that figure and a little later raised it to $150,000. But he wanted to know where all the people were.

Told they didn't show up until 10 a.m. he waited.

When the old folks arrived, Mrs. Brown said, "Everyone was crying. The old people came up to hug him and kiss him. It was very moving."

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson would be happy that the Brooke Army Medical Center suite where he stayed will be used as a patient lounge, his widow says.

"Lyndon was a great one for spreading benefits around to as many people as possible," Lady Bird Johnson said. "I know he would be as happy about this as I am."

Mrs. Johnson spoke Tuesday at the dedication of the suite on the seventh floor of the hospital at Ft. Sam Houston. The lounge will be named for the late president.

"We were always very happy with the concern and care showed us during Lyndon's six visits here," she said. This is a splendid way to use the suite now."

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Prince Charles "would have made a good fighter pilot," says Gen. Adolf Galland, the German Luftwaffe ace in World War II.

Galland and the heir to the British throne, now a Navy helicopter pilot, had a chat about flying Tuesday at a celebration marking the opening of a new wing at the Royal Air Force Museum in London.

"Twenty-five years ago it would have been impossible to think of the two of us meeting like this tonight," said the general, who was credited with shooting down 104 Allied planes. "It's a nice surprise."

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — New York City might have avoided its financial problems had a woman been mayor, says New York State's lieutenant governor, Mary Anne Krupsak.

"New York was spending money it didn't have, and I don't think that would have been allowed to continue under the kind of women I have seen in public life," said Ms. Krupsak, who uses the title by preference.

She spoke Tuesday at a meeting of the National League of Cities.

She said women officeholders she knows appear to be more candid than some male officials.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The names of juvenile offenders should be made public "to expose young criminals for what they are," says New Haven's police chief, Biagio Di Lieto.

Claremont dial-a-ride too successful for city?

Claremont's dial-a-ride taxicab service has become so successful that the City Council has asked the city staff to keep a close watch over it because it may cost too much.

Since July, the dial-a-ride program has been subsidized with city general-fund money since the city learned that revenue sharing funds cannot be used as matching funds for federal transportation grants the city is seeking.

Deputy City Manager Paul Brotzman explained that the concern has arisen because the City Council had set a limit of $1,000 a month in subsidizing the program. But if the brisk taxicab business continues, the city's subsidy will exceed the $1,000 a month limit.

A Claremont resident gives a 35-cent ticket to a cab driver to drive him anywhere in Claremont, although he may have to share the ride with others.

The cab driver keeps a log of passenger miles driven. The cab firm, Paul's Yellow Cab, bills the city each month at 88 cents a mile, whether one passenger or more.

Brotzman suggested that the city not do anything about raising fares or cutting back the number of hours the program operates until the Southern California Rapid Transit District (SCRTD) improves its bus routes throughout the city.

The dial-a-ride program was launched in October 1974 with revenue sharing funds subsidizing the project.

Service was offered from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., but residents were slow to take advantage of the program.

Three months later, the service by Paul's Yellow Cab was extended from 8 to 5:30 p.m., and business began to climb.

In March, 1,092 passengers rode dial-a-ride, 1,200 in April, and 1,250 in May.

The count dropped to 1,100 in June, but was back up to 1,200 in July, and down to an even 1,000 in August.

Came September and the end of the summer lull in the college-oriented community, and 1,300 passengers called for dial-a-ride.

That was surpassed in October when 1,861 passengers used the 35 cents anywhere in Claremont taxi ride.

Brotzman said that while the level of subsidy paid by the city has usually remained below $1,000 a month, the increase in passengers boosted the subsidy level to $1,385 in October.

Brotzman explained that the city has not yet exceeded budget projections based on $1,000 a month.

The deputy city manager stressed the "incredible confusion" as to which agency the city should push its application through to receive federal transit funds.

Claremont, he explained, is a member of the SCRTD and the West Valley Transit Service Authority.

"The RTD does not have an approved transit plan which includes dial-a-ride," Brotzman said, "But WVTSA does. We could also apply as an independent agency."

"I don't expect any federal funding before April or May," he said.

Who uses dial-a-ride? Taxicab drivers say students going to school, persons going to and from work, and senior citizens visiting the Village shopping district.

Passengers buy ticket books of five rides each for 35 cents a ride at the Chamber of Commerce office, or at the retirement homes.

Brotzman said that Paul's Yellow Cab is using one taxicab fulltime, and a second cab more than half the time in the dial-a-ride program.

Park in north La Verne gets top priority rating

La Verne wants to use about $130,000 in federal grants to buy a park site in North La Verne.

The proposal, part of open space acquisition program, became the City Council's top priority at a public hearing Monday for the use of about $135,000 over the next two years in Community and Housing Development ACT funds.

The park site headed a list of seven proposals which a COmmunity Development Advisory Board turned over to the council two weeks ago.

Other projects on the list include, in order of preference, construction of a community center, street medians at Arrow Highway and White Avenue and improvement of Bonita Avenue.

The list of priorities is required by the government before the funds can be approved.

City Manager George Caswell told the council that although there is talk of extending the grants for another three years he didn't want to count on them until Congress took action. He said that if the funding is extended La Verne would get another $300,000.

THE COMPLEAT AMERICAN HOUSEWIFE 1776

This delightful book was compiled by "a Lady" of the times and extensively illustrated. The volume contains nostalgic recipes, pages of Colonial philosophy and sage sayings by famous people of the day, household hints, a bartender's guide of our founding fathers' day and a look into the diary of a 1776 housewife.

The old fashioned prose, the old-style type face, pen and ink drawings and 'antique' stock combine into a beautiful salute to our Bicentennial celebration.

Pilot's sudden dive averts disasterous collision between two airliners

WASHINGTON (AP) — When an air traffic controller told an American Air Lines pilot to throw his jumbo jet into a dive nearly seven miles above Lake Michigan last week, the plane was between 20 and 100 feet from a Trans World Airlines jet, a federal agency says.

The near disaster on the night before Thanksgiving was averted when the pilot of the American Airlines jet sent his plane into a 2,000-foot dive, the National Transportation Safety Board said Tuesday.

More than 300 persons were aboard the two airplanes.

The frantic dive, which occurred while American flight attendants were serving dinner, injured 24 persons, three of them seriously, according to the preliminary report issued by the safety board.

None of the passengers on the TWA plane was injured and the TWA pilot took no evasive action, the report said.

The safety board report did not indicate why the two planes were flying on a near-collision course.

The American DC10, carrying 194 passengers and crew, was on a nonstop flight from Chicago to Newark, N.J., and was climbing from nearly 35,000 feet toward 37,000 feet when ground control ordered its urgent descent, the board said.

The Trans World Airlines jet, carrying 114 persons, was on a flight from Philadelphia to Los Angeles and was cruising at 35,000 feet.

Visibility was limited at the time of the incident, the board said.

The safety board's report said an air traffic controller at Cleveland asked the American pilot his altitude shortly after making a similar request to the TWA pilot. American Capt. Guy Eby responded that he was passing 34,700 feet, adding, "We can see stars above us but we're still in the area of the clouds."

Two seconds later the air traffic controller ordered the American jet to immediately descend to 33,000 feet and then called the TWA flight to alert it of conflicting traffic.

After the emergency descent, the American pilot asked ground controllers, "What altitude was that other aircraft at?"

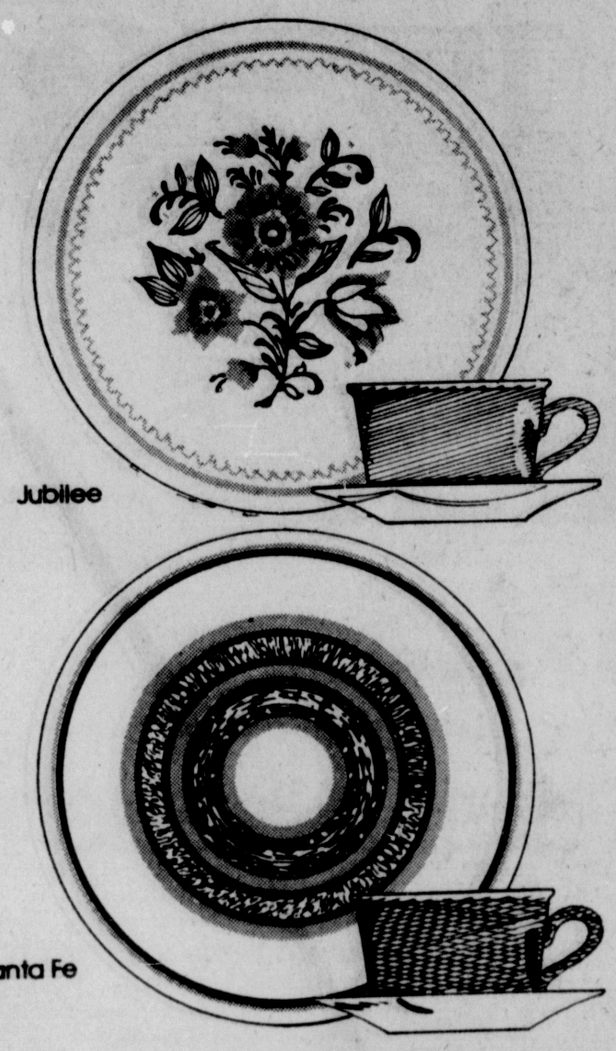

"He was at (35,000 feet), sir," ground control answered.

"I'd check on that," the American pilot said.

The safety board said Eby later told investigators the two planes came within 20 to 100 feet of each other. The board said flight data recorders in the two planes showed the American jetliner hit an altitude of 34,953 feet before the dive and the TWA plane was at an altitude of 35,000 feet.

The American flight was diverted to Detroit to obtain medical treatment for those injured in the dive. The TWA flight continued on to Los Angeles.

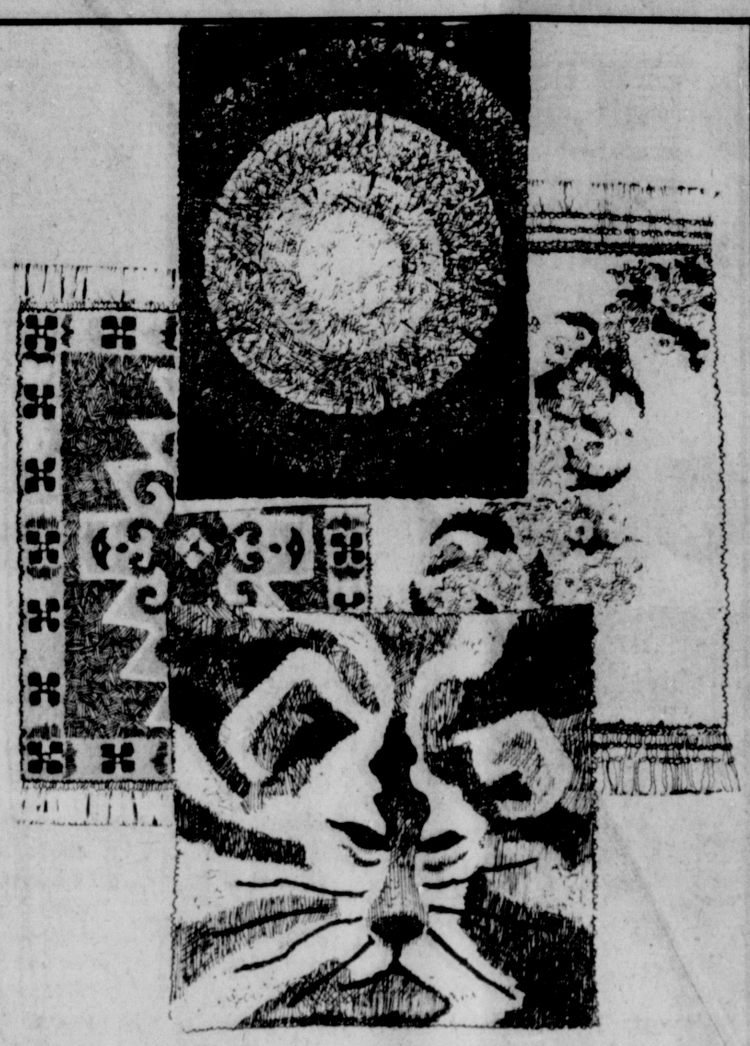

The safety board said its investigation of the near disaster is continuing. The board will issue a full report at a later date.

Patricia Hearst undergoing psychiatric treatment in jail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst is undergoing psychiatric treatment to help her overcome emotional trauma, according to her lawyer, who says she has lost weight and looks "pale and gaunt."

Dr. Elizabeth M. Richards, a child psychiatrist, began treating Miss Hearst Tuesday afternoon at the San Mateo County jail in Redwood City, defense attorney Albert Johnson said.

"The aim of the treatment is to aid her and help her in overcoming the emotional trauma we have all found she has been faced with in helping her prepare her defense to these charges and understanding the nature of them," Johnson said in an interview.

Defense lawyers got approval in October from U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter to have a private psychiatrist see Miss Hearst.

Johnson said Dr. Richards would treat the defendant "on many occasions." He said it was not likely the psychiatrist would be called as a witness in Miss Hearst's trial on bank robbery charges.

Dr. Richards is a graduate of Stanford Medical School, began private practice in San Jose in 1971 and is married to a doctor. She was not available for comment.

Miss Hearst, 21, has been held without bail since her arrest Sept. 18. Her trial is set for Jan. 26 on charges of participating in an April 1974 Hibernia Bank holdup with members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, which had kidnaped her two months earlier.

She also faces robbery, assault and kidnap charges in Los Angeles.

"She's been losing weight rapidly," Johnson said of Miss Hearst. "She's not feeling well. Her weight loss is a cause of consternation. She looks pale and gaunt.

"She also has emotional problems in converting her thoughts to a future course of action," said Johnson, cocounsel with F. Lee Bailey.

Johnson said Miss Hearst, who in a taped communique once renounced her family and declared herself a revolutionary, wants to return home to her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst. Her father is president of the San Francisco Examiner.

"She's indicated that all along," the attorney said. "She's very fond of her mother and father, holds them in the highest respect and esteem."

He denied reports that she had quarreled with them since she has been in jail, saying "she treats them cordially and with respect in all ways."

Meanwhile, there were court-related developments Tuesday concerning two of Miss Hearst's companions.

A Superior Court judge in Oakland dropped one of four felony charges against Wendy Yoshimura, with whom Miss Hearst was arrested Sept. 18. He also took under advisement a request to lower her bond from $100,000 to between $10,000 and $15,000.

The judge dismissed a charge of possessing bomb components as too vague. Miss Yoshimura still faces charges of possessing explosives, a machine gun and a destructive device intended to harm. The charges stem from discovery of a weapons cache in Berkeley in 1972.

Federal prosecutors in Sacramento said Steven Soliah, a house painter once accused of harboring Miss Hearst, was not the triggerman in a bank robbery in which a woman customer was shot to death.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Donald Heller said Soliah did not fire the shotgun blast that killed 42-year-old Myrna Opsahl. But he said Soliah was equally responsible for her death under federal law. Soliah has pleaded innocent to bank robbery charges involving a death.

FBI agents say Miss Hearst rented a garage in which a getaway car used in the robbery was stored. But she has not been charged.

Charges of harboring Miss Hearst were dropped when Soliah was charged in the bank robbery.

Overseas Yule mail? do it now!

Persons who want to assure on-time delivery of Christmas mail to overseas points are urged to post them by next Monday.

And they should be sent air mail.

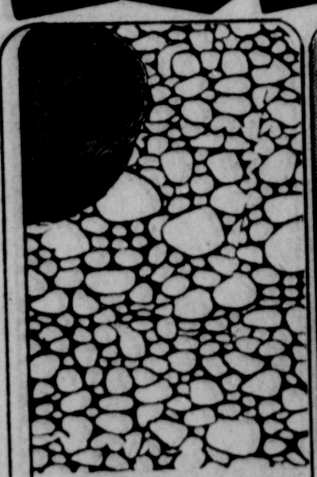

Surface mail to all foreign countries except Canada and Mexico already is late. So is everything but air mail letters to overseas military points.

But Pomona Postmaster Warren Lynch said air parcels will be accepted until Dec. 9 to points in Africa, the Near East and the Far East, and until Dec. 11 to the American continent and Europe.

Air mail letters for overseas will be accepted for on-time delivery till Dec. 14 for Africa and Asia, Dec. 16 for Europe and South America, and Dec. 19 to Canada and Mexico.

As for the United States, delivery for Christmas requires posting by Dec. 15 for air mail letters and Dec. 20 for air parcels.

U.S. maneuvers will test Alaska pipeline defenses

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 14,000 troops including naval personnel from Coronado, Calif. will take part next month in Arctic winter maneuvers designed to test plans for defense of the Alaska pipeline, the Pentagon has announced.

Army, Air Force, Air National Guard and Navy units will be brought in from as far away as Massachusetts for the exercise, which will last from Jan. 5 to Jan. 31.

"The purpose of the exercise is to train a joint task force under the extreme climactic conditions of the Arctic to defend the main base complexes of Alaska, the Trans-Alaska pipeline and to repel or destroy any invading force," the Pentagon said.

The maneuvers, named Jack Frost '76, will be conducted in an area covering some 400 miles from Galena Air Force Station to Ft. Greely, Alaska.

The main ground forces will be drawn from the Army's 172nd Infantry Brigade based in Alaska, plus a battalion from the Ninth Infantry Division at Ft. Lewis, Wash.

In addition to Air Force units based in Alaska, the U.S. Readiness Command will employ regular Air Force and National Guard units from Idhao, Nebraska, and Massachusetts.

Elements of a new ranger battalion will be flown in from Ft. Stewart, Ga., and two platoons of Navy Special Warfare men will be brought from Coronado, Calif.

Smog experts gloomy about prospects of cleaning up air

PASADENA (AP) — Air pollution experts are drawing a gloomy picture of Southern California's anti-smog battle, with one saying the fight is losing ground and another declaring that trying to stop polluters by regulation has proved a failure.

One of the pioneers in smog research, Caltech professor emeritus Arie J. Haagen-Smit, expressed discouragement Tuesday over the "staying power" of the public's willingness to make sacrifices for clean air.

The forum was the Conference on Strategies for Air Pollution Control in the South Coast Air Basin, a two-day exchange of views among politicians, scientists and industry spokesmen, frequently at odds on the stubborn smog problem.

Dr. Sheldon K. Friedlander, Caltech professor of chemical and environmental health engineering, said improvement in smog control achieved since the 1960s has leveled off in the past two or three years. He said the plateau reached is still too high — well above the levels for 1977 under the federal Clean Air Act.

He blamed the halt in progress on recently increased burning of high-sulphur fuel oil by utilities running short of natural gas, and on pollution-forming byproducts of the catalytic converters on new cars.

Haagen-Smit and federal Enrvironmental Protection Agency official Frank Covington also mentioned the hard knocks the anti-smog battle has taken from the energy crisis and economic recession.

But an economist with federal antipollution experience laid the overall blame to the attempt to stop polluters by making regulations.

Instead, said Dr. Paul B. Downing of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, polluters should be taxed on the smog they pour out, giving them an economic incentive to clean up.

Under the present system, he said, "If a polluter can avoid the regulation by claiming technological infeasibility, he can save substantial costs. Likewise, if there is a low probability of being caught in violation and-or a low penality if caught, he has an incentive to violate.

"It appears that stationary and mobile sources alike have been successful on both counts in Los Angeles."

He proposed a system of taxes, an approach used in some pending federal legislation. Downing said levying a tax on polluters would have the following advantages:

—A polluter would be motivated to install anti-smog devices quickly to avoid extra taxes and for the same reason would want to keep them operating effectively.

—The regulatory system has no incentives for developing new smog control techinology, while the tax system would.

In addition, he said, the regulatory system resulted in a "bluff" by Congress because the Clean Air Act sets standards for 1977 that could not possibly be met in Los Angeles. Now that it appears Los Angeles will be granted an extension of the deadline, he said, "None could take a federal threat seriously in the future. A new game must be found."

With no military academies to prepare them, most officers of the British army progressed through the officer corps because of wealth and family rather than performance. Commissions were bought and sold and the prices were staggering; the lowest commission in the regular service, ensign in a foot regiment, cost 400 pounds. A lieutenant colonelcy cost 3,500 pounds in the infantry, 5,200 pounds in the cavalry and 6,700 pounds in the foot guards, The World Almanac notes.

Spy ship to leave Long Beach berth

LONG BEACH (AP) — The sophisticated spy ship Glomar Explorer will be moved from her berth at Long Beach Harbor in February, but a spokesman for the firm which operates the ship declines to say where she might be headed.

Joseph Gates, contract administrator for Global Marine Development, Inc., said Tuesday that the firm had canceled the lease for the 2½-acre site at Terminal Island next to the ship's docking area.

He said he did not know where the ship would be moved.

"I don't know, so I really can't comment on that," he said. He added he hoped the Explorer could be moved by Feb. 11.

The Glomar Explorer was used to raise portions of a sunken Soviet submarine from the Pacific Ocean 750 miles north of Hawaii in 1974.

There was speculation that the ship, built by billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes, might be moved to a berth at the Long Beach Naval Station.

The federal government earlier this year admitted owning the vessel and it could be docked at the Navy base since a number of ships once based there have been shifted to San Diego.

MSAC group sets car wash

The Mt. San Antonio College Christian Students Association will hold a car wash 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Shell station at Grand and Temple avenues in Walnut.

Proceeds will go to defray to benevolent work of the group, according to Diane Pace, chairman of the committee in charge.

Small city can't pay electric bill

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Carbondale, a small northeastern Pennsylvania city, has another seven weeks to come up with a way to pay off its overdue $24,000 electric bill.

The Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. agreed Monday to keep electricity flowing to street lights and other city facilities after threatening to cut off power Monday. It relented when the city said it would accept state help in straightening its financial problems.

City Solicitor James McDonough said the city also owes Bell Telephone more than $4,000 and Pennsylvania Gas and Water Co. $11,109. Some of the bills date back 2½ years, utility officials said.

At the end of the year, the city will owe $130,000 in overdue bills, said McDonough.

"The problem is very practical," he said. "How do you raise money?"

City property and wage taxes already are as high as the state permits. Meanwhile, the city's payroll costs and other operating expenses keep rising, he said.

Part of the problem is city management, said William Wilcox, secretary of community affairs. He called Carbondale a poorly run community.

Virgin Islands

Stamps from the Birtish Virgin Islands are the only ones in the British Commonwealth that bear a picture of Queen Elizabeth — but are in U.S. currency denominations. U.S. dollars are the legal tender in BVI.

Voters recently approved a new home rule charter that will eliminate the city comptroller and treasury department and put the city into Lackawanna County's assessment program. The change will mean an additional $90,000 annually for the city, McDonough said.

Navy carrier delay sought

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House budget office is urging a delay in asking Congress for a new nuclear-powered aircraft carrier to help hold down defense requests next year, administration sources report.

The Pentagon reportedly is preparing to ask President Ford to reject this proposal by the Office of Budget and Management on grounds that a year's delay would only boost the already high cost of a carrier because of inflation.

This could prove to be an early test for Donald Rumsfeld, recently installed by Ford as secretary of defense after the President fired James R. Schlesinger. Only recently Schlesinger said he was forced to resign after objecting to what he called an inadequate defense budget planned by Ford for next year.

The Defense Department officially declined to comment on any internal administration discussions about Ford's new budget for fiscal 1977. The President will send that budget to Congress early in 1976.

However, administration sources said the Office of Budget and Management is proposing to hold defense spending next fiscal year to about $99 billion. Although this would be an increase of about $6 billion from this year's request, it would fall about $5 billion below the $104-billion spending figure Ford projected originally for next year.

A number of programs are reported earmarked by the budget office for budget surgery, including the Air Force's new A10 close-support war plane.

In proposing to delay a request to Congress for a new carrier, the White House budget office reportedly based its position in part on a contention that the Defense Department has not yet decided what kind of a carrier to build next.

Navy and defense analysts are agreed that an early start should be made on building replacements for the six 75,000-ton Forrestal class supercarriers which are growing old.

But there is disagreement on whether to replace the Forrestal class vessels with 91,000-ton Nimitz-class giants costing about $2 billion or a new type of "midi" carrier about two-thirds the size of the Nimitz class.

Pentagon analysts have argued the Navy must shift away from buying such expensive ships as the Nimitz-class carriers in order to afford a big enough fleet over-all. They proposed the "midi" carrier, which they estimated could be bought for about $1 billion.

After studying the matter for several months, the Navy recently came up with a study which in effect concluded that it was not feasible or economical to build a new class of "midi" carriers and that the best course would be to build more of the Nimitz-class vessels.

Let us speak again of football

The only wrong with the football season is it ends too quickly.

One hardly has time to take a backward look before getting deep into basketball. This year the football season ended one week and basketball started the next.

But it was a good and memorable football season. Locally, La Verne college won a share of its first SCIAC football title ever. Coach Roland Ortmayer found himself with some of the best talent ever at the skill positions.

With the exception of sophomore Ben Morrow, the backfield was made up of seniors. Wide receiver Ted Pedvin, who made all-conference, will be back next year. But tight end Rusty Jackson will graduate.

Jackson, Curtis Frick, Roy VanderKallen and Randy Brown gave Leopard fans some of the best offensive football ever produced on the Leo campus.

Frick, the tackle-busting fullback and crunching blocker, has received some pro feelers. Ortmayer feels both of his fine running backs deserve a shot at pro ball.

"Vandy with those moves, quickness and durability could surely help a professional team," Ortmayer remarked after the final game of the season.

A couple of moves by defensive coach Ben Hines midway through the season turned La Verne's defense around.

Hines switched freshman John Rome, a replacement for the injured Jose Echevarria, to end and moved in Dave Poling, a sophomore from Claremont, at middle guard.

Tackle Grant Seiler was switched from the strong side to the weak side and the Leos began making the plays they had been missing.

* * *

I suppose it's heresy to voice such a thought. But wouldn't a Rose Bowl game featuring Cal (with Chuck Muncie, Joe Roth and Steve Rivera) against Ohio St. have been more interesting than a Buckeye-UCLA rematch?

The Bruins are sure to come up with a stronger effort than they did in their initial 41-20 encounter with Woody Hayes' football version of the "Big Red Machine."

But this may be General Woody's best team. While a repeat of 1965 (When Tommy Prothro's UCLA team stunned number one Michigan St. 14-12 after losing 13-3 during the regular season) would be sweet, it's not about to happen.

The Bruins have three chances against Ohio St. in the Rose Bowl . . . slim, fat and no.

Not that I think Cal could beat the Buckeyes either. It's just that the opinion here is that the Bears would be more interesting in a losing effort than the Uclans.

And I hope I'm wrong.

I was about USC. Who would have thought that John McKay's team would lose the last four games of the season?

Brunt of the responsibility will always be placed on McKay's untimely announcement that he was leaving the college ranks to join the pros in Tampa, Fla.

But that was probably only the final straw in a string of bad things (injuries) that were bound to take their toll sooner or later.

The Trojans may have been doomed from the time Rob Hertel broke his leg in the Oregon game, Oct. 18.

Evans couldn't hit

Other teams eventually realized that Vince Evans, though possessed of a tremendously strong arm, is very weak at picking out secondary receivers and is not accurate.

Evans could throw a football through a brick wall . . . if he could hit the wall.

Against UCLA, he threw only to (or toward) Randy Simmrin. It makes it much easier to defense the run when the opposition knows you can't pass. That Rickey Bell was able to gain well over 100 yards game after game was a tribute to his ability. He did a lot of it on his own.

McKay produced some great teams and some great players and his coaching will be missed. But the pressure of being expected to win and win big took its toll. The man who will leave for Tampa after the Liberty Bowl game is not the man who built Troy to its present stature.

Not that he is any less of a coach. But the humor that was his trademark has been, to a great extent, replaced by testiness in his last years at SC.

Those in Tampa eagerly waiting the famous coach with the great sense of humor may be in for a shock. The quips are likely to come infrequently and journalists may find McKay is NOT the good humor man.

It's really too bad. But after all, it just proves the man is human after all.

LIGHTER MOMENT

Danny Lopez, left, and Ruben Olivares clown for photographers at a pre-fight physical check-up Wednesday in Los Angeles. They tangle tonight at the Forum.

Olivares vs. Lopez tonight

Boxers disagree

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Two of the world's hardest punchers, pound for pound, battle tonight at the Forum in 10 rounds or less...or more.

Ruben Olivares of Mexico City, a 28-year-old battler who has knocked out 72, and 23-year-old Danny Lopez of Alhambra, Calif., who has stopped 26, meet at the Forum.

The winner has been assured a shot at Ghana's David Kotey, who took the World Boxing Council 126-pound crown from Olivares.

Hence, the California Athletic Commission has approved the proposal that if Olivares and Lopez are even at the end of 10, an 11th round will be fought to determine the challenger.

Lopez says fine.

Olivares says no.

Promoter Don Fraser says the Mexican will fight the extra round for extra money.

Olivares will fight for 40 per cent of the gate and Lopez for 25 per cent with 10,000 fans expected to swell the proceeds to $120,000.

Kotey beat Olivares at the Forum via a split decision that caused rioting among the pro-Mexican fans. Fraser said extra precautions have been put into effect to avoid a similar uprising this time.

"I don't mind fighting an extra round, but I don't think the fight will go 10," commented the red-haired younger brother of former world welterweight challenger Indian Red Lopez.

"I think I'll end it in five or six, but the longer it goes, the better chance I have," Danny continued. "I've worked harder for this fight than any other I've been in."

Lopez' record stands at 27-3 with the 26 knockouts. Olivares, who first came to Los Angeles as a 20-year-old, is 78-6, and 71 of his victories came via knockout.

On two occasions, Olivares was the world bantamweight champion when he could make the 118-pound limit. Twice again he was a 126-pound champion when campaigning with the featherweights.

"I want to win a fifth title just for me," he declared. "I know I can do it. But the California Boxing Association was stupid in setting up an eleventh round.

"If it is even after 10, we'll have another fight."

A loss to Lopez would end Olivares' major standing in boxing and he knows it. Known as a playboy between fights, he has trained hard for his battle against Lopez.

Neither will have weight troubles as contracts call for 127 pounds, give or take a pound. Scoring will be by the referee and two judges under California's 5-point system — the winner of each round gets from one to five points depending on his showing and the loser nothing.

The card at the Forum opens at 8 p.m. PST with unbeaten Lupe Pintor of Mexico City meeting Catalino Flores of the Philippines. The main event will follow.

Frick, Davis Poettgen honored

Cal Poly's Falls an All-American

Cal Poly defensive back Tony Falls was selected today to The Associated Press College Division All-America third team in football today.

La Verne College fullback Curtis Frick Cal Poly San Luis Obispo tailback Gary Davis and Cal Poly cornerback Jim Poettgen were named to the honorable mention list.

UC Riverside wide receiver Butch Johnson was voted to the second team for the highest recognition given to a Californian. Puget Sound linebacker Bill Linnenkohl was a first team selection to rank the highest of any Poly opponent.

Falls, a senior came to Poly this season in following Coach Andy Vinci from the University of San Diego. He played his high school ball at Pasadena's Muir High and was a star on a championship team at Pasadena City College before going to USD.

Most of Poly's opponents were aware of Falls' ability and usually ran their pass patterns away from him. Falls intercepted two passes and blocked four punts.

Although he isn't big (5-11, 160), Falls made up for it with his quickness.

Frick, a senior from La Verne's Bonita High, rushed for 695 yards on 166 carries to lead La Verne College to a SCIAC co-championship. He was also considered the Leos' best blocker.

Davis rushed for 1,244 yards and 15 touchdowns on 364 carries in becoming San Luis Obispo's top career rusher. He is a product of Pomona's Garey High.

Poettgen, who was Falls' mate in the Poly defensive backfield, took advantage of the opponents staying away from Falls to intercept 11 passes to lead the national NCAA Division II statistics. He is a junior from Mission Viejo.

Among the others earning honorable mention status were Azusa Pacific back Mitch Merrill.

UC Riverside quarterback Dan Hayes, Cal Lutheran back Hank Bauer and Azusa Pacific defensive back Steve Wood.

Lakers play 'smart game'

DETROIT (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar said his team played "smart basketball" as the Los Angeles Lakers snapped the Detroit Pistons' five-game National Basketball Association winning streak with a 118-110 victory Wednesday.

Abdul-Jabbar and Cazzie Russell provided the scoring punch and Jabbar the defensive strength for the Lakers.

Russell pumped in 31 points while Abdul-Jabbar had 29 points along with 21 rebounds and a Cobo Arena record of 11 blocked shots for the Lakers, who scored only their fourth road victory in 12 tries this season. They have an unbeaten record at home.

The last time Abdul-Jabbar played against Detroit in the Pistons' season opener, Bob Lanier scored 41 points to lead the Pistons to a 112-99 victory.

"I always get up when we go against Lanier," Abdul-Jabbar said Wednesday after the game. "He's one of the best and he always plays me tough."

Bill Sharman, Lakers coach, said Abdul-Jabbar played outstanding basketball.

"This was Kareem's best defensive and rebounding game I've ever seen," Sharman said. "He clogged the middle, made them shoot higher and probably scared them. Our timing was just perfect. We did force Detroit into some hurried shooting."

Ray Scott, Pistons coach, agreed with Sharman's assessment.

"They collectively outplayed us. Los Angeles has been running more. They closed off the middle and we missed what we did when we did get in the middle. Jabbar played super."

The Lakers blew an 11-point lead early in the second quarter and fell behind by as many as seven in the third period. But they finally caught the Pistons at 87-87 early in the fourth period.

Then Russell, guard Don Freeman and Abdul-Jabbar took over as the Lakers outscored Detroit 21-6 to put the game out of reach.

The defeat was only the sixth against 10 victories for the Pistons, the leaders in the Midwest Division. By winning, the Lakers moved half a game ahead of idle Golden State for first place in the Pacific Division.

John Mengelt with a season high of 26 points and Howard Porter with 23 topped the Pistons' scoring.

Williams' shot wins for Kings

OAKLAND (AP) — "I wasn't getting many shots, so I just decided to let one go," said forward Tom Williams whose goal for Los Angeles with 1:16 left to play beat the California Golden Seals 3-2 in a National Hockey League game Wednesday night.

Williams had tried only three shots before he took a pass from Mike Murphy and fired a high one as he crossed the California blue line.

"I never saw it," said Seals' goalie Gilles Meloche. "I saw his stick go up, but Rick was in the way."

Defenseman Rick Hampton explained: "It wasn't my fault. You don't expect a guy to shoot from 10 feet outside of the blue line. It had to be a helluva shot to hit right in that spot."

California Coach Jack Evans agreed, "I thought Gilles played a good game tonight, except he missed that one at the end. How could he see it with a man in front of him?"

Kings Coach Bob Pulford admitted, "The players know they were lucky to come out with two points in this game." The two points moved the Kings to within seven points of Montreal, Norris Division leader.

For the Seals it was the third straight loss in the first four games of their current 12-game home stand.

Los Angeles goalie Rogie Vachon stopped 37 shots, 18 of them in the scoreless first period. Although the Kings escaped without a penalty in the first period, they got off only eight shots, about half of them long ones by defensemen.

In the second period each team got a goal during a delayed penalty against the other team. Bob Nevin scored at 15:05 for the Kings, beating Meloche with a 20-footer after a pass from Marcel Dionne. The assist by Dionne was his 400th point in an NHL career now numbering 337 games. Al MacAdam of the Seals evened it up 44 seconds later with his 10th goal of the season.

Los Angeles went ahead again at 2-1 on Bob Berry's goal at 6:05 of the third period, when Meloche was caught behind the net, but the Seals tied it at 8:57 on a 10-footer rookie Ralph Klassen lifted over Vachon's shoulder.

It's year of the casts

By The Associated Press

Each season in the National Football League seems to highlight one particular player. One time its the year of the quarterback. Then comes the year of the lineman.

This season's got a cast of hundreds...or hundreds of casts.

Well, not really. But it sure must seem that way to a lot of beleaguered coaches and trainers.

At last count there were 151 players on the NFL's injured reserve list. That's just five names shy of last year's league-record 156. And with three weeks of regular-season play left, that record—and maybe a few more bones— seems certain to be broken.

For some teams, like the Kansas City Chiefs and Detroit Lions, teams whose playoff hopes are ranked somewhere between slim and none, the injuries guarantee only a creaking end to an already busted season.

But to others, like the Miami Dolphins, the bumps, bruises and worse could be the difference between a lane on the road to Super Bowl X and a seat in the stands at kickoff time.

The Dolphins had enough problems of their own when Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick fled to the World Football League. The problems were compounded by injuries to defensive starters like Dick Anderson, Nick Buoniconti, Manny Fernandez, Bob Heinz and Mike Kolen. All but Fernandez were lost for the season.

Still, the Dolphins battled along, holding first place in the American Conference East, by one game over Baltimore and Buffalo. But much of their success was due to Bob Griese's cool quarterbacking. Then, bang! Griese suffered a severed tendon in a toe.

In came Earl Morrall, just as he did in 1972, when the Dolphins recorded their perfect season. And now, bang! Morrall's out, too, with torn knee ligaments.

So the rest of the season is left in the inexperienced hands of Don Strock, who threw the ball just twice in the two previous years he's warmed Miami's bench. And backing him up is Jim Del Gaizo, a journeyman passer signed this week by Miami from the ranks of the nation's insurance salesmen.

The Chiefs have 11 players on injured reserve and have stopped adding to the list. They're playing out the schedule with whatever people can be assembled each week and will probably have no more than 36 physically able to play against San Diego this Sunday.

The decision not to add players to the injured reserve list is a direct result of the league's plan to stock the new Tampa Bay and Seattle franchises. Teams will be allowed to protect only three players from reserve lists, so the Chiefs are already in danger of losing some key personnel. Among their injured reserve listed are wide receiver Otis Taylor, defensive end Marvin Upshaw, guard Ed Budde and rookie quarterback Mike Nott.

In Detroit, Joe Reed became the Lions' No. 1 quarterback when Greg Landry and Bill Munson were both kayoed in the same game and sidelined for the season.

In New England, a separated shoulder sidelined Jim Plunkett. Neil Graff tried his hand at quarterbacking but couldn't do the job. Back came Plunkett—briefly. He reinjuried his shoulder and now Steve Grogan is calling the Patriots' signals.

Citrus ready for bowl date

The game everyone would like to see, capping the 1975 junior college football season, will never materialize. Instead, unbeaten and once tied Citrus College will face College of the Canyons Saturday in what has been labeled the Mission Bowl.

The contest will be played at Canyons' campus stadium in Valencia, not far from Magic Mountain, off Interstate 5. Game time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the 6,500 seat stadium.

The Owls (9-0-1) are one of only two unbeaten junior college teams in the state this season. The other, South Coast Conference champ Orange Coast (10-0), will play Rio Hondo (8-1) Saturday night at Cerritos College, Norwalk, in the Avocado Bowl. Citrus was responsible for Rio Hondo's only loss, 28-0.

JC officials pre-empted the possibility of a Citrus-Orange Coast matchup last spring when they paired conferences at random in bowl games as an alternative to the football playoff concept which was abandoned.

Citrus will carry its best record in history into the contest with Canyons, which was a dark horse candidate in the Western State Conference. The Cougars (6-4) won their last six games to nab the championship, including a 30-14 upset over then unbeaten and No. 4 ranked Santa Barbara. Both teams finished the conference schedule with 6-1 records, but Canyons got the bowl bid via the victory.

Citrus won nine games in a row before it was tied by Saddleback in the Mission Conference title game on Nov. 22, 13-13. Officially they are co-champions (6-0-1), but conference coaches voted to send Citrus to the bowl game because of its better overall record (9-0-1 to 7-1-1).

The game will probably have more meaning for Canyons which has had a long climb upwards towards respectability after losing its first four games of the season.

But the Owls appear to be the stronger team. They have averaged 32.9 points per game while giving up on the average, 8.4 points. The Cougars average 20.4 points a game while allowing 17.0.

Citrus will be giving away about 25 pounds per man in the line, offensively and defensively. The Cougars average 235 defensively, compared to the Owls' 213. Offensively, the Cougars average out to 222 pounds, while the Owls go 193.

"There's no doubt about it," said coach John Strycula, "the Cougars are a big, hard-hitting team that does everything well. We have been impressed by their hustle and blocking. They balance their offensive attack with running and passing."

The key runner in the ground attack is Melvin Cook, who has averaged 100 yards per game in Canyons' last five outings. When the Cougars go to the air, quarterback Keith Meyers has the size (6-3, 195) to stand up under pass-rush pressure. He threw for more than 200 yards in a 23-20 victory over Compton.

The Owls are blessed with a sound running attack, led by the dynamic duo of Roy Prather and Herbie Holmes. Prather finished the regular season with 895 yards rushing, 13 touchdowns and a 5.6-yard per carry average. Holmes was not far behind with 881 yards, 10 touchdowns and a 6.5-yard per carry average.

Quarterback Herb Daniel passed for more than 1,100 yards and picked up an additional 318 on the ground. His main passing target was John Krawczyk, who latched onto 21 passes for 455 yards and four TDs.

Poly's grid finale may be '76 opener

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly is either starting its 1976 football season early Saturday afternoon or finishing its 1975 schedule late.

It all depends on how you look at it.

Poly will conclude a frustrating season by hosting Cal State Northridge in an 1:30 p.m. kickoff at Kellogg Field.

To be honest, Poly's football staff and team didn't want to play this game.

Hopes were to be participating in the NCAA Division II playoffs at this time instead.

However, that didn't work out so Coach Andy Vinci is now hoping to finish with a second consecutive winning season with a victory Saturday.

Poly enters the season finale with a 5-4-1 season record, 1-2 in California Collegiate Athletic Association play.

Vinci did some checking and discovered Poly hasn't enjoyed back-to-back winning seasons since 1961 and 1962.

"That's our main goal now," the ever-hustling coach said. "It will be a milestone to establish a string of winning seasons. We're building that up to the team."

Even though Saturday's game makes it a long season — the opener at Chico State was way back on Sept. 13 — Vinci is delighted to have an opportunity to finish the year with a win.

"It will set the stage for next season if we win this one," he said.

Obviously, Poly didn't want to remember the 44-6 loss at San Luis Obispo as the season finale.

Vinci is the first to admit he isn't satisfied with the season.

After guiding the Broncs to a 5-3-2 season last year for the school's best record in a decade, Vinci was obviously looking for more improvement in his second year at Poly.

"We should have been 9-2 this season with a co-championship," he said. "I guess it's going to take a couple of more years to get where we want to be but we're getting there."

Poly will be saying goodbye to 18 seniors Saturday but only two offensive starters and six on defense.

"We have a good nucleus coming back next year," he said. "Now we're working on recruiting 10 or 12 junior college transfers to fill in some holes and 20 or more freshmen to build the program for the future."

Except for the loss at SLO, Poly's other defeats this season have been close. And even the score at SLO didn't reflect the game when the Mustangs scored 26 points in the fourth quarter to break it open.

Vinci reports the team came back from a week's Thanksgiving vacation in good shape for practices this week.

Only defensive end Rich Gomez, who broke a leg in the Cal State Fullerton game, will miss the finale.

"As unlucky as we've been in losing so many close games, we have been lucky in avoiding major injuries this season," Vinci said.

BRONC BUSTERS — Saturday's game will be played under the sunshine — hopefully — rather than the lights because of the cold temperatures after dark at this time of the year.

Even though the fall quarter ends Friday, Vinci is hoping for a decent crowd because of little sports competition in the area this Saturday afternoon.

Poly has outscored its opponents, 288-177, this season and is averaging 378.8 yards per game while allowing 280.7.

Sophomore Teddy Myles leads the team in scoring with six touchdowns for 36 points. Tight end Jay Johnson is next with 32 points on five TDs and one two-point conversion. Ron Jones and Mark Sanders have tallied five TDs apiece.

Place kicker Alister Crumlish has been successful on 18 of 23 point-after conversions and four of 11 field goal tries.

Vinci will have both quarterbacks — junior Leo Costa and sophomore Bart Moran — back next season and Sammy Ross will also be on hand after red shirting this year.

Negotiations are serious about the possibility of playing Mississippi State next season.

Present plans call for hosting UC Riverside, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, Cal State Fullerton, San Francisco State and Puget Sound next fall and traveling to Cal State Hayward, UC Davis, North Texas St., Northern Arizona, Cal State Los Angeles and Cal State Northridge.

Turnovers cost Saints

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Correspondent

Nogales High turned a five-point halftime lead into a 76-50 romp over the hosting San Dimas Saints Wednesday night.

Trailing just 29-24 after two quarters, the Saints turned over the ball five times in the first three minutes of the second half to allow the Nobles to build a 39-26 lead. Four of those five turnovers were due to traveling calls, as San Dimas gave away the ball nine times in the third quarter while Nogales surrendered it only once.

The result was a 47-37 Nogales lead after three quarters, despite the fact that the Nobles hit on just seven of 21 field goal tries in the third period.

Nogales went on a shooting spree in the final quarter, outscoring San Dimas, 29-13. Eight Nobles scored in the fourth period, making good on 10 of 17 shots and nine of 10 free throws.

Guard Angel Rosado finished as the high scorer for the Nobles and the game with 18 points, followed by teammates Greg Coleman (16) and Homer Nobles (12).

Reserve guard Steve Loumagne led the Saints with 10 points, as Roger Jones topped San Dimas' starters with seven markers. Loumagne hit on five of eight tries from the floor, but the Saint squad as a whole went 21 for 59, a poor 36 per cent. San Dimas was even worse from the free throw line, scoring on eight of 24 attempts.

The Nobles, meanwhile, shot 42 per cent from the floor (28 of 66) and 63 per cent from the foul line (20 or 32).

Nogales took a 14-9 lead after the first quarter, mainly on the strength of outrebounding the Saints, 13-6, for the period.

The second quarter was played on even terms, with each team scoring 15 points and grabbing 11 rebounds.

Nobles, the Nogales forward, was the top board man for the game with 13 caroms, followed by San Dimas forward Van McGee with 11. Nogales forwards Coleman and Dario Diehl each grabbed nine rebounds, as the Nobles took a 48-37 advantage on the boards.

A total of 22 players scored during the game — 12 for the Saints and 10 for the Nobles.

San Dimas will look for its first win Monday at home against Damien at 7 p.m. The Saints have lost twice.

Alta Loma impressive

Alta Loma High chalked up its second straight impressive win of the young basketball season Wednesday afternoon, as the Braves bounced host Montclair 86-56.

Alta Loma blew open a close 36-28 game at the half with a 26-9 scoring advantage in the third quarter to post its second hoop victory against no losses. The contest was the season opener for the Cavaliers.

As in Tuesday's win over La Sierra, the Braves used remarkable scoring balance to post the triumph. Leading point-getter for A.L. was center Rich Davis, who had 14, nine of those in that big third period explosion.

All but one player on the Alta Loma roster entered the scorebook, with reserves John Conger and Cliff Houtz both picking up 10 points off the bench.

Montclair guard Steve Hossler was the top scorer in the contest with 22 points, but in contrast to the Braves' 57 points from non-starters the Cavs received only 21 points from their bench.

Adding to the Cav woes was the fact that three of the Montclair players fouled out in the roughly-played contest. A total of 57 infractions were called, 31 of those against Montclair.

Alta Loma will try to keep rolling Friday night as the Braves host Upland at 8 p.m. Montclair will have a chance to hit the victory column Friday evening as the Cavs travel to Ontario for an 8 p.m. tipoff.

GEORGE BEST HAS SIGNED to play with the Aztecs. George who? Might ask a newcomer to the game of soccer. Simply put, George Best was considered one of the world's soccer superstars. We say "was" because 29 year old Best, after a series of differences with his team's management, England's Manchester United, quit in 1972. The disagreement stemmed from Best's off-the-field activities and their influence on him and his team; Best's delight for wine women and soccer, in that order did not meet with the approval of the "front office".

"I don't care what he does off the field," John Chaffetz, the L. A. Aztec's Managing General Partner, said. "He has lots of friends in L. A. and he is fully aware that Los Angeles has bright lights and beautiful girls. As long as he performs well on the field I am not going to try to control that 29-year-old young man. We also don't care what anyone calls him including 'Bad Boy Best'.

"The "Tangerines" are also working on acquiring the services of three or four additional English players that can work with Best on the forward line. "You tell me who you want, and I'll get them to go to America," said Best to Chaffetz, but the problem is one of money. After signing Best for an undisclosed amount there cannot be too much left in the kitty. We offered to lend them ten bucks but Chaffetz lately can only relate to English pounds.

Best will be arriving in mid-January and we will do our best to keep you posted on the best of Best.

ARE YOU READY TO SEE SOME HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER! This Friday, Claremont High will play San Gabriel High at 8 p.m. at Pomona College. The J.V.'s play at 6 p.m. and sandwiched between the big boys the 7-8 year old Claremont Jaws from AYSO will face a Pomona AYSO team from the same age division. Admission: $1.50 for adults and .50c for kids.

* * *

With the high school soccer season upon us "'Tis not the season to be jolly, fala la la la" for those players who are leaving their AYSO teams in order to comply with CIF rules which prohibits the youngsters from participating in outside team competition while scrimmaging or playing for their high schools.

Local indignation at this apparent violation of civil liberties is gaining momentum and has received further strength from the recent ruling from the Superior Court of the State of Washington which declared similar restrictions as unconstitutional. In rendering its decision the Court stated among other things:

"What about church teams? In some religions a student has a religious duty to support the church team and a duty to play on its team. Playing on a church team could therefore be an expression of religion . . . I can't believe that the WIAA (Washington Interscholastic Activities Assn.) believes that church groups exploit their young people. It is possible there may be some exceptions, but certainly not in this locality, yet participation on a YMCA or church team disqualifies under this rule.

Citing the case of Kelly V. Metropolitan County Board of Education the court stated that "That case supports the contention that the minor plaintiff has a standing in this court to challenge the validity of this rule on a constitutional basis. That case also supports the reasoning of this court that we are dealing with more than a privilege.

This court also considers the right of a student to play on Saturdays and Sundays, or at other times when off the school grounds and in non-school related activities as an exercise of liberty and freedom of association protected from state action under the 1st and 14th Amendments to the United States Constitution."

IN HORSE RACING THEY CALL IT the "Run For The Roses", and bullfighting refers to it as the "Moment Of Truth" but in American college soccer the "Crowning Moment" is about to take place this weekend in the little town of Edwardsville, Ill. just a few miles east of the Mighty Mississippi River where the top four NCAA teams in the country will vie for collegiate soccer's highest honor.

The combatants are down to Brown of the East, Howard of the South, Southern Illinois of the Midwest and U. of San Francisco of the Far West . . . in the quest for the Division One NCAA title.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS HOWARD of Wash., D.C., will oppose hosts. So. Ill. in one semi and pride of the Ivy League Brown Univ tangles with past champs Univ of San Francisco in the other. Oniy Howard has returned among last year's four . . . St. Louis U, Hartwick and UCLA.

TITLES HAVE BEEN DECIDED in other college divisions. The Univ of Baltimore copped the Division Two mantle in the final game vs. Seattle Pacific who repeated as runnersup. Defending champs Adelphi (NY) had to be content with 3rd place while U of Wisc/Green Bay finished 4th.

DIVISION THREE HONORS to Babson (Mass) who wrecked Brockport State's (NY) efforts to make it two in a row, and Ohio Wesleyan took 3rd to Johns Hopkins' (Baltimore) 4th.

IN NAIA CHAMPIONSHIP ACTION the very capable Simon Fraser Univ of British Columbia fell before the power of Quincy (Ill) College. The Canadians with three national team players had displayed their exceptional skills in a playoff victory for western honors vs our own Pomona-Pitzer last week. Quincy's win was the third straight NAIA title for the all-St. Louis lineup which was ranked first or second in the nation most of the season.

THE NATIONAL JUNIOR COLLEGE DIADEM went to another all-St. Louis team when Florissant Valley tucked away its sixth national title in nine years in a triumph over Morrisville (NY) Jr College. A number of Florissant Valley players have in the past moved onto 4-yr schools So. Ill. and St. Louis U to add NCAA titles.

* * *

HOW HAS CALIFORNIA FARED IN COLLEGE SOCCER? Well, the game is fairly new out here compared to eastern colleges where its collegiate history goes way back, and younger than midwest soccer where youth and pro soccer has been in vogue for 50 years but only 17 years old in college circles.

The Far West came into national prominence in 1966 when Univ of San Francisco brought the first NCAA title back home in a victory over Long Island U with players recruited mainly from Norway and Africa; and in 1969 USF lost the championship game to St. Louis U and repeated the loss to St. Louis U in 1971. In two more games they could again be NCAA champs!

Westmont of Santa Barbara is the only other Far West college team to collect a national college title but they failed to make the Western finals this year.

UCLA has been strong nationally but usually met up with oft-time champs St. Louis U with victory close but unattainable.

This year Cal State Fullerton moved into Div. One after finishing runner-up in Div. Two just two seasons back. The Titans fared well, "hanging in" to the Far West final when they bowed out to San Francisco on a last minute goal and missed the trek to Edwardsville. But San Francisco is there now and poised for the effort to bring the NCAA cup back to the Golden Gate. They have a good chance against Brown Univ in the semi but the road ahead vs the all-black, all-foreign and very mature Howard titlists . . . or SIU's all-American squad (they beat St. Louis U twice this year) . . . could be very challenging. Too bad it won't be on TV but not even the number one college soccer game in the U.S. can get that notice at this stage of the game. If YOU complain to the networks . . . maybe we will get it for NEXT YEAR!

Prep soccer has new look

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Eleven area schools begin prep soccer action this week, in what promises to be a banner season for the locals.

As a result of Upland fielding a varsity soccer squad for the first time this year, the San Antonio and Citrus Belt leagues will have a new look for 1975-76.

The Highlanders booters will move into the SAL, keeping that loop at a full eight-team makeup. Webb School, which had resided in the SAL, will move over to the CBL to make room for Upland. Ontario Christian will be competing in the Olympic League this season, with Chaffey remaining in the Citrus Belt.

The San Antonio League has been dominated by Claremont High since adopting soccer in 1972, but Chino started to break through the domination last year by holding the Wolfpack to ties in the school's two league meetings.

However, Claremont went on to win the SAL title for the fourth time in a row, the Cowboys finishing second. Both squads did well in the CIF playoffs, the 'Pack finishing third in the competition while Chino made it all the way to the quarterfinals.

Once again this year, Claremont and Chino figure to be the teams to beat, but nearly every SAL entry looks improved over last year so things will be interesting.

Coach Otto Rieger's Claremont squad has four all-SAL performers returning from last year's 21-3-1 team giving 'Pack followers good reason for optimism. The four are goalie Casey Roberts, fullback Jim Vanzee, forward Gregg Kaufman and forward Jerry Vanzee. Jim Vanzee and Roberts were also first-team all-CIF picks last year, while Kaufman made the all-CIF second-team.

Rieger is also pleased with the fact that all 11 of his starters are returning lettermen. Highly regarded players, in addition to the above foursome, are forwards Harvey Macauley and Bob Scarcia and fullbacks Jon Hawes and Mark Sbertole. Top-rated newcomer is Dave Anderson, who led the Claremont J.V. team in scoring last season.

Chino mentor Buddy Ayala has most of his squad back from last year's 16-2-4 season, although all-leaguer Juan Gonzales has graduated. Ayala will have the services of high-scoring Edwin Marquez along with returning lettermen George Pineda, Melchor Lopez and Jesus Lemus. Marquez, fresh from his duties as a place kicker for the Cowboy football squad, was an all-SAL pick last year as a junior.

Damien, with all-leaguer Rick Davis back for his senior season, is also expected to challenge Claremont and Chino. Coach Al Mistri's Spartans finished third in the SAL last year with a 9-4-1 record.

Of the other SAL entries, Garey (with all-leaguer Peter Manzo back) figures to be tough, as does an improved Montclair squad. Upland, the newcomer in the loop, also could surprise as the Scots looked sharp last year while playing at the junior varsity level.

Chaffey will be out to defend its title in the Citrus Belt League, with Webb figuring to be the Tigers' toughest challenge. The Gauls return 11 varsity performers from last year's team, including Paul Richards and Doug McCowan.

Other CBL entries this year include Pacific, Fontana and Gladstone.

Over in the Olympic League, Ontario Christian is rated as one of the contenders, as coach Fred Wind's Knights have proven to be highly competitive ever since the school adopted a soccer program.

SAL league play is set to get underway January 7. CBL soccer action will start Jan. 12, with Olympic League games beginning Jan. 8.

Several important tourneys loom for the locals prior to the start of league action. No less than 10 area teams are entered in the Damien Tourney, which is set to go Dec. 27-30.

Prior to that both Claremont and Damien should be in for stiff competition in the South Torrance Tourney, Dec. 20-23.

Sagehens roll to 83-58 victory

Pomona-Pitzer pulled down its first win of the young basketball season in impressive fashion Wednesday night, as the Sagehens waxed visiting LIFE Bible College 83-58.

The 'Hens built up a big 50-26 advantage at the half and coasted from there.

Forward Brandon Boyd led the way for the victors with 27 points, 19 of those by halftime. Pomona-Pitzer used mostly subs in the second half. Center Bob Hoehn was next high man for the Sagehens with 11.

LIFE center Charlie Hetzer led his squad in scoring on the contest with 18 points.

Pomona-Pitzer, now 1-2 on the year, will swing back into action Saturday night at home against Pt. Loma. Tipoff time for that one is set for 8 p.m.

Cal Lutheran a big family

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—Cal Lutheran College offers no football scholarships, yet the school is unbeaten and battling for a national championship.

"It's a family affair," says Coach Bob Shoup. "My daughter raises the flag, one son is the ball boy, my wife is the ticket manager."

Despite this less-than-austere approach to football, Cal Lutheran plays Texas Lutheran Saturday for the championship of Division II of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. The game figures to sell out the school's stadium, all 4,200 seats.

Shoup is a former California-Santa Barbara quarterback who has been the head coach here for the last 14 years, the last six as athletic director, too. He is the only football coach the school has had and his record is an impressive 100-30-3.

"We have a school policy against athletic scholarships," said Shoup, 43. "In our by-laws, we can't give any student more than two-thirds tuition for any reason. Now, many of our players are on academic scholarships, but they are based on need only.

"About one-third have state scholarships and at least half have state loans."

Wearing his "We're Number One" tie bar, Shoup apologized for not bringing his players the 40 miles south to Los Angeles so they could be interviewed by the news media. "During the middle part of the day, almost all of them work as teacher's aides to earn their room and board," he explained.

And in 14 years of coaching, Shoup says only two players have failed to graduate. "This program is designed to make football fun while the students are getting a good education."

Despite the location of the school, in a rural, hilly area 15 miles inland fom the Pacific Ocean, football is a big sport for residents and students. Cal Lutheran is the preseason training home of the Dallas Cowboys and in fact the team's present wide receiver, Butch Eskridge, is the son of former Dallas equipment manager Jack Eskridge.

"Butch was here every summer," said Shoup. "We saw him grow up."

It's not every school that has a football turnout each fall of 10 per cent of the entire student body. "We had 112 kids dress for the first week of practice," said Shoup, whose campus has an enrollment of 1,100.

The NAIA Division II football championship means a lot to the Cal Lutheran devotees, but they're approaching it with the idea that it's a family affair. Shoup's wife, Helen, sons Richard, 18, and Greg, 13, and daughter, Heidi, 11, all have specific jobs to perform during the football season.

"We all pitch in," he said proudly.

This year the family is 10-0.

Scots set soccer debut

Upland High will make its varsity soccer debut Friday night, as the Highlanders will host Chaffey at the Upland football field.

Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m.

This will be Upland's first year of varsity soccer competition and Chaffey (the defending Citrus Belt League Champs) figures to provide the Scots with plenty of competition.

Admission to the game will be $1 for adults, with children under 12 admitted free of charge.

Hall of Famer Glenn Hall played 18 National Hockey League seasons as a goal tender, four with Detroit, 10 with Chicago and four with St. Louis.

Youth leagues are planned

The Pomona Park and Recreation Departments are now taking team registration for their 1976 youth organization basketball program. The deadline for entry is Wednesday, Dec. 17.

Senior High age teams representing organizations such as churches, Boy Scouts, YMCA clubs and Boys Clubs are eligible.

The league entry fee is $50 which covers the cost of offcials and trophies. Teams are required to have uniformed colored shirts with numerals. A simple "T" shirt will suffice.

Eligibility rules require that players be in junior or senior high school. Participants may not turn 19 years of age prior to January 1, 1976.

Practice games are played in December with league play beginning in early January. Teams interested in participating should call Phil LaPierre at the Recreation Office, 620-2321.

Sign-ups continue for adult basketball

Registration for the Pomona Park and Recreation Department's 1976 Adult Civic Basketball program will continue through Wednesday, Dec. 10, it was announced today. This is a two-day extension past the originally announced date.

Four divisions of the roundball sport have been offered. Each division has an entry fee that covers the cost of referees, scorekeepers, and awards.

League play begins on January 5, with action continuing through February. The maximum number allowed on a roster is 12 players. Teams play 14 league games.

The four divisions and their entry fees are: Regulation $120; Open $140; Slo Break $80; and Half-Court $15.

Open and Regulation Leagues play high school basketball rules. The basic difference in the two is the caliber of play. Players must be 18 years old.

Slo Break is a variation from the regular rules and yet a full court game. The minimum age is 25 years. This is a great activity for the older person who likes to play basketball but not at full pace.

The half-court leagues are the closest thing to real recreation. Teams play one evening a week with three games. Contests are self-officiated with the main emphasis on conditioning and fun.

Half-court squads are allowed one player over six-foot-one on the court. Three players play at a time with rosters limited to a maximum of five.

The Pomona Department is also interested in beginning a women's league. Interested teams should call the Recreation Office.

Persons or teams wishing to play this season are urged to contact Phil La Pierre at 620-2321.

Webb cagers lose opener

PASADENA — Webb School opened its 1975-76 prep basketball season on a disappointing note Wednesday afternoon, dropping a 51-37 decision to Whittier Christian in the opening round of the Pasadena Poly Tourney.

The Gauls led Whittier 16-13 at the half in the low-scoring contest, but Whittier bombed in 14 points in the third quarter to only one for Webb to ice the win.

Remarkably, WCHS' guard Bill Pevsner tossed in all 14 of those third quarter markers. Pevsner, who did not start the contest, wound up as the game's leading scorer with 26 points.

Forward Marshall Morton led the Webb attack with 17 points, while center Doug Seaborne added 16.

The Gauls will continue tourney action in the consolation bracket today at 3 p.m. at the Pasadena Poly gym. They will be meeting the loser of Wednesday's Fillmore-Brethren contest.

Finals in the eightteam tourney are set for Friday.

Veeck remains in limbo

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Chicago White Sox and Bill Veeck remained in baseball limbo today after American League owners rejected his initial bid for the team and gave him one week to raise the ante.

Veeck, the man who introduced bat day and midgets to baseball while owner of three teams over three decades, was told Wednesday night by the owners his offer included too much debt and not enough cash.

"I'm sort of in shock," said Veeck after being told he must come up with $1.2 million more in debenture" money for the sale to go through. "I didn't anticipate this. The requirements in this (new proposal) are quite a bit more stringent than other teams that have been admitted in recent years.

"I'm neither optimistic nor pessimistic," he added. "It's possible (to meet the asking price) and we'll try."

The attorney for the group Veeck is representing, David Cohen of Philadelphia, was definitely pessimistic.

"It's not impossible, but it is improbable," Cohen said. "It's going to be seven days, 24 hours a day of backbreaking work."

Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, and the owners and general managers met for more than six hours before MacPhail emerged to announce the league counter-proposal and deadline.

Ford will visit Philippines

MANILA (AP) — President Ford's visit of less than 24 hours to Manila this coming weekend is expected to have little immediate impact on the major issues between the United States and the martial law government in the Philippines.

"Ford is facing an election, so we cannot expect him to make some substantive commitments," Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo said in a statement this week.

A big welcome is planned for Ford, however. One official predicted it will be "nothing short of overwhelming."

The Philippines' insistence on a new security and bases agreement with the United States and the lapse of a formal trade agreement are expected to come up in the three or four hours of formal talks by Ford and President Ferdinand E. Marcos on Saturday and Sunday.

Despite Philippine claims that negotiations are under way on the agreement under which the United States operates major military bases here, the Americans claim they have yet to see formally what the Filipinos want. The Americans insist no negotiations have started.

Talks about a treaty to replace the Laurel-Langley Agreement, which was rooted in the old colonial relationship between the countries and which lapsed July 3, 1974, are not expected to bear fruit until at least mid-1976 and probably not until after the U.S. election next November.

In the meantime, U.S.-Philippine trade continues, but in slightly diminished value, mostly because the Philippines is looking for new markets for its major export crop, sugar.

According to American Embassy sources, Philippine sugar sales to the United States, about 1.5 million tons last year, are running at 500,000 to 600,000 tons this year. Total trade is down from $1.3 billion a year ago to about $1 billion for the first nine months of 1975.

Ford has said he would use stops in Indonesia and the Philippines to demonstrate America's "undiminished interest in the security and well-being of Asia."

Aware of what happened in Indochina last spring, officials here have indicated they would prefer to learn Ford has found some way to help their defense against internal subversion and outside aggression without having to depend on approval from the U.S. Congress.

They also would prefer the United States to hand over Clark Air Base and Subic Bay naval base, to pay rental to use them and to let the Philippines develop the land they are on for economic purposes. Marcos has demanded an end to "extraterrotoriality" on the bases.

Survives on raw rabbits

ALPENA, Mich. (AP) — A 49-year-old man was discovered safe after spending three days lost in the woods surviving on raw rabbits he killed with his hands.

Theodoros Kladis of Detroit was spotted by a Department of Natural Resources helicopter Tuesday as it searched Osineke Township in Alpena County where he had been hunting over the weekend.

His family had notified authorities that Kladis was missing when he did not return home.

He was taken to Alpena General Hospital where he was reported in good condition with frostbitten toes.

Kladis said he went hunting Sunday in scrub-forest hills he knew well, but became disoriented when it began raining. Kladis said the rain later changed to snow and he spent Sunday "frozen soaked from the water and covered with ice."

He tried to find his way out of the woods by walking around the area for two days.

For food he killed rabbits in their burrows, but was forced to eat them raw. "I'm not a smoker so I had no matches," he explained.

Marines get 6 months in grenade case

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Two young Marines must spend six months in prison after pleading guilty to conspiracy to steal 300 hand grenades from an ammunition bunker at Camp Pendleton.

The sentences were imposed Monday on Sgt. Phillip Bernard Shaw, 23, and Pvt. John Snow, 20. A third defendant, Marine Lance Cpl. Dale A. Teeter, was given probation.

The trio was arrested at a parking lot after government investigators agreed to pay $20,000 for the grenades valued at less than $600.

JOHNNY WONDER

In the year 1790, a group of French scientists, dissatisfied with the old, cumbersome methods of measurements they had to use, went to work to invent a new system.

They agreed that it should be a simple system to use as well as one that could be used accurately the world over for all measuring needs. They looked for a standard of measure that would not have to be based on such standards as the length of a human foot or the number of grains of wheat it took to make a pound.

After much research, they chose as their new standard unit of length the 10-millionth part of an imaginary line running through Paris from the Equator to the North Pole.

They named their new measurement "metre" (which we also spell meter) from the Greek word that means "a measure."

Though the metric standards were ready in 1799, their adoption has been slow. People were inclined to keep using old, familiar units.

Beethoven's Ninth

Concert at Citrus

The Citrus College Choir will perform with the San Gabriel Valley Symphony at Citrus College Saturday night at 8:30.

Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 in D Minor will be conducted by Giora Bernstein and supported by the college's 100-voice choir. The program will also include Concerto Grosso No. 8, the Christmas concerto by Corelli.

Morita Thornberg, soprano; Christina Krooskos, mezzo soprano; Val Stuart, tenor, and Harold Enns, baritone, will be soloists.

The choir was founded by Ben Bollinger, director of choral music, in 1968. It has performed at the dedications of the Ontario Motor Speedway, the London Bridge at Lake Havasu, Ariz. and the Marriott Hotel in Los Angeles, at the homecoming rally at Ontario International Airport for then President Richard M. Nixon, and at the 1972 Super Bowl game in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

CHRISTINA KROOSKOS

Season memberships for the San Gabriel Valley Symphony Association are $5 for students, $12.50 for adults and $25 for family. Tickets at the door are $1.50, students, and $2.50 general admission.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Breaking Point," now being filmed in Toronto with Bo Svenson and Robert Culp as stars, has been acquired for release by 20th Century-Fox.

The company will release the film in all countries except Canada.

Piano talk set

Raye McCall, Pomona piano technician, will present a program on the care and maintenance of pianos in Ben Lomond Elementary School, Covina, at 7:30 tonight.

The program, sponsored by the San Gabriel Valley branch of the Music Teachers Association of California, is open to the public without charge. Interested music students, teachers and parents are invited.

McCall will show a film, "The Music of Sound," produced by the National Piano Technicians Guild, and will answer questions about piano selection and upkeep after the screening.

McCall is an officer in the national guild and past president of the Pomona Piano Tuners Guild.

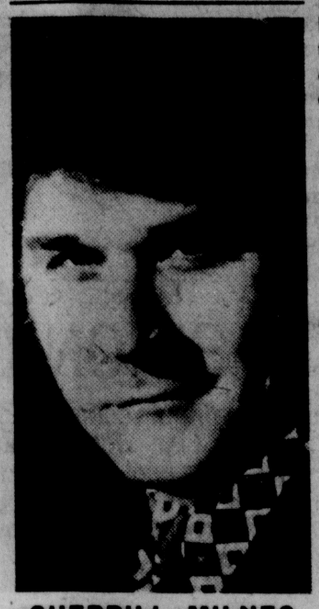

You can hike, watch birds

NEW YORK (AP) — Hikers can be bird watchers, too. According to "The Magnificent Continent," just published by Rand McNally, the 2,000-mile hiking tract called the Appalachian Trail is also the route for one of our continent's major avian flyways.

Soft rock group booked at CMC

Kalapana, a soft rock group from Hawaii, will present a concert at the Claremont Men's College stadium at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

The program is offered by the Claremont Colleges, Thee Studio of Claremont and Abattoir Records.

SHERRILL MILNES, Metropolitan Opera baritone, will present a recital at the Ambassador Auditorium, Pasadena, at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 14. Milnes has appeared with the New York City Opera and made his debut at Carnegie Hall, New York.

The group is made up of David John Pratt, Malani Bilyeu, Mackey Feary and Kirk Thompson. They have been playing together for two years and will embark on their first concert tour of the mainland later this month.

The word "kalapana," meaning "the beat of the music," was adopted by the group in order to keep itself free from any particular musical category.

"Labels limit a group and its style," says Pratt. "If you say a group is basically rhythm and blues, people begin to expect it all the time."

NIGHT AT THE OPERA — Comedian Danny Kaye stars in "Danny Kaye's Look-In at the Metropolitan Opera," an hour-long (repeat) CBS-TV special, Channel 2, at 5 p.m. Saturday. FRIENDS of jovial Luke Burk, former proprietor of the Holt Inn, Pomona, will be happy to know that he is thriving at the helm of a New Orleans-style restaurant, the Louisiana Purchase, at 24312 Del Prado in Dana Point. Burk helped remodel the building a couple of years ago, then stayed to manage the restaurant. The Louisiana Purchase is a funky, home-style building with interesting paintings and open fires. The menu includes such delicacies as Creole gumbo, crabmeat Orleans, and frogslegs Louisiane, plus abalone, lobster and steak. Among the traditional creole desserts are New Orleans bread pudding with whiskey sauce and Mardi Gras almond torte with whipped cream.

FBI's effort to discredit black leader disclosed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover approved a plan to discredit a Midwest black militant leader with anonymous letters accusing him of adultery and of being a bureau informant, according to FBI documents.

The documents, made available by the Senate intelligence committee, show that the bureau's campaign against Charles E. Koen lasted from 1968 to 1971 and was approved at each step of the way by the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

However, it was unclear whether the letters were ever actually sent to Koen, whom a committee spokeswoman said is currently a minister in Cairo, Ill.

According to the FBI documents, the campaign against Koen began in November 1968 with a proposal by St. Louis FBI officials to send him an anonymous letter criticizing him for referring to the possible use of violence in his public speeches.

The letter would purport to be from members of Students for a Democratic Society in St. Louis and "would have an adverse effect on the consolidatory efforts of the SDS and the Black Liberators," according to the proposal approved by Hoover.

Two months later, Hoover authorized the FBI's Baltimore office to send an anonymous letter to the No. 2 man in the Black Liberator movement informing him that Koen was working for either the CIA or FBI.

The letter, signed "A Soul Brother," said Koen "was in Baltimore last week and spent most of his time in the Justice Building. Don't know whether that cat was talking to CIA or FBI."

The FBI documents also include a 1969 memo from the head of the FBI's St. Louis office who claims the campaign forced Koen's resignation as head of the Black Liberators, a black militant group.

In February 1969, after Koen had resigned as head of the Black Liberators, the FBI chief in St. Louis proposed mailing an anonymous letter designed "to alienate (Koen) from his wife and cause suspicion among the Black Liberators that they have a dangerous troublemaker in their midst," an FBI document said.

According to the proposal, Koen's wife, "appears to be a faithful loving wife" and "an intelligent, respectable young mother, who is active in the AME Methodist Church."

The anonymous letter would be sent to Mrs. Koen telling her that her husband has "been making it here with Sister Marva Bass and Sister Tony and then he gives us this jive 'bout their (sic) better in bed then (sic) you."

It was to be followed by sending a copy of the anonymous letter to Koen with the note "I understand she recently received this letter ... I suggest you look into this matter."

In a memo authorizing the operation, Hoover directed the agents to "use commercially purchased stationery and take the other precautions set out to insure this cannot be traced to this bureau."

The next and final step in the FBI campaign against Koen came in February 1971 when Hoover approved a proposal for circulating a cartoon sketch of Koen that "would emphasize the cost of Koen's attire and inquire as to the source of his funds."

At that time, Koen was head of the United Front in Cairo, which, according to the FBI memo, was a "predominately black organization which has been boycotting white merchants in Cairo for the past 20 months."

Joyce Brothers

The work fanatic

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm a 34-year-old single woman and I've had good jobs ever since I left college. I've always been ambitious and determined to get to the top, whether it was the top of my class or the highest possible position in my profession. Recently, I met a man I really like and I was disturbed when he said he could never be seriously involved with me because he felt I was "too in love" with my work. I was hurt by this and somewhat shocked. We have since broken off our relationship but now I'm beginning to wonder if what he said is true and if this means I'll never be able to have any personal relationships. I do love my work, but also want something else in my life. — C. M.

Dear C. M.: There are several possibilities here. First of all, this man may be so insecure himself that he finds it impossible to be with a woman who doesn't devote all her time and thought to him. Some men are threatened by women who are active and interested in their own profession. Because of their feelings of inadequacy these men usually don't make the best of lovers or husbands.

If this is the case with your friend, you may be lucky that this relationship was resolved as it was. In any healthy relationship, each partner must be allowed his individuality and must be able to develop his or her own potential.

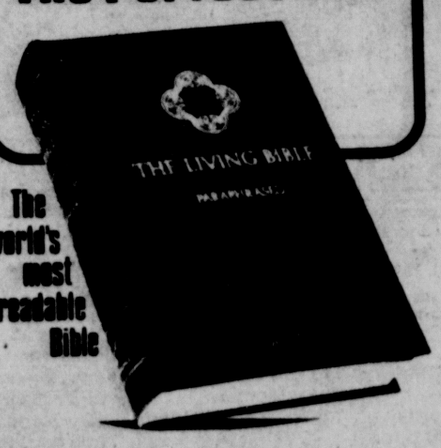

Another possibility is that you are a compulsive worker; and that you try to sublimate all your personal, emotional and sexual needs by losing yourself in work. This isn't uncommon, but it isn't healthy. Everyone needs to find a proper balance between work and play. Usually, persons who get lost in their work are denying or covering some aspect of themselves that seems too frightening or threatening to examine. Sometimes, compulsive workers have a deep fear of emotional or sexual involvement. They use work as a means of hanging on to the identity they fear they might lose if they allowed themselves to enter a profound relationship. They may feel they couldn't meet the demands of such a union, or they may be unwilling to risk possible failure.

Often, the person who protects himself from emotional relationships in this manner, comes from a home where there was a great deal of marital strife. The home may have been shattered by divorce, or the parents may have remained in a suffocating marriage with constant animosity between the two. When this happens, one parent may use the child of such a marriage to live out his or own frustrated dreams. The child may be pressured to achieve and "get to the top at great cost to the emotional development of the youngster.

Ask yourself if you are using work as an escape. If you are, set up a monthly or weekly calendar and budget your time so that you set aside some hours each day for personal exploration and development. When you're particularly frustrated or anxious and you find yourself rushing into a new work project, stop.

Take time to first examine the real cause of your frustration and if it's unrelated to work, set it aside andface it for what it is. Don't allow yourself to get trapped into burying all your feelings and denying your emotions.

Your friend actually did you a great service for he made you look at yourself and your work patterns. This is a good time to do it, for by looking now, you can develop a life style that includes work, love and relaxation.

Spring fashion picture

Culottes, pedal pushers make news

NEW YORK (AP)—Layering, Oriental designs, baggy pants and blouson tops are among the fashion items popping up for spring.

Mechanics suits and overalls, blazers, culottes and jumpsuits also were popular with designers who held their fall showings here over the last several weeks.

And don't forget the "fanny wrap." Yes, the fanny wrap. It consists of a scarf, shawl, sash or other piece of fabric tied at the waist or hip and covering or "wrapping" the derriere.

In sportswear, clothes were oriented toward work as well as play. Carol Horn's Habitat, for example, featured a navy waiter's jacket and skirt. She also presented culottes worn with a shirt jacket.

Scott Barrie also did much with culottes, designing jumpsuits as well as dresses. One, a gray cotton over-the-knee culotte dress was worn with a Moroccan stripped jacket. Another, a culotte jumpsuit, was shown with a sash hanging from one shoulder and loosely fitted about the waist.

Barrie also brought back something not seen in a long time: Bermuda shorts. Halston, with his penchant for Ultrasuede, used the synthetic fabric in another design popular in the 1950s: pedal pushers.

Work and day clothes had clean, tailored lines, with lots of layering. Bill Blass favored hand-crocheted vests and pullovers to be worn with silk suits. Kasper in his collection for Joan Leslie showed dresses side-slit over underskirts. He also showed tunics over pants as well as skirts.

Ann Klein's orange tie-front linen jacket was sleek over white linen pants. Cathy Hardwick 'n' Friends presented a dirndl styled dress in knit.

Evening wear for spring is bare and sexy with lots of shoulders and glimpses of sides, midriffs and thighs.

One of the most popular designs was the evening gown with a drawstring ribbon or sash across the bust. One-shoulder designs also were popular, some with roomy, blouson tops, such as Halston's small dotted gown.

Bill Blass and Scott Barrie used the tunic to dress up a gown. Blass showed a handpainted tunic over crepe pants. Barrie designed one in chiffon, worn over a straight matte jersey shift.

A fabric popular with Geoffrey Beene was hammered satin, which he used for evening tops, giving them a somewhat shiny, metallic look.

Halston's silk chiffon creations were shown as two-piece gowns, deeply sashed at the waist, as well as one-piece off the-shoulder outfits. Genre's batik midriff tie top has a neckline that plunges almost to the waist. It was worn with matching wrap pants.

Oscar de la Renta had a design that covered the body for evening: his hand-painted peach and white silk chiffon caftan. The garment billowed out, allowing fabric to caress the arms. It was worn with a matching head wrap.

TVs can go anywhere with you

Dashing through the snow in a one-horse open sleigh, o'er the fields we go, watching TV all the way.

A little corny maybe, but this fractured version of "Jingle Bells" could well be true in this day and age. It could be true, that is, if you could find a sleigh, a horse and some snow. A television that could work in a sleigh would be the least of your problems.

And, after you've watched something scintillating in the snow, you could catch Kojak at the campsite, Sports Spectacular at the stadium, MASH on a mountaintop or Columbo in the car.

To do all this out-of-the-house television viewing, all that's needed is a battery-operated television such as the type that has been enjoying a growth in popularity that may rival electronic calculators.

In fact, rapidly increasing numbers of people now who buy a second television are selecting porable "dual power" black and white models that can be operated on normal household current or rechargeable self-contained batteries.

LARGE SELECTION — Randy Barrett stands in front of the many television sets displayed in the showroom of Barrett's TV located at 4949 Holt Blvd. Although it's not large, the store has one of the largest selections of TVs in the valley. Tex Barrett has been in the business for over 28 years and has always emphasized service with the product.

It may be the thought that counts. But it's the present that can express the thought that counts.

When your holiday gift-giving thoughts are of love, think seriously of the many people on your list who would appreciate a photographic portrait of you or your family this year.

Professional portrait photos can be made in a variety of sizes — large, framed and custom-finished prints for display in your own home or to give to parents and grandparents, smaller prints for a spouse's office or to send to relatives and friends.

If it's been a while since your family was photographed together, make plans now to have a professional portrait made.

Weather permitting, you can have the portrait taken outdoors in a park or yard setting. Or you might prefer to have a more formal, traditional portrait made in the photographer's studio.

From the one photography session you will be able to acquire many portrait print gifts.

Most photographers offer a pre-sitting conference when you make the portrait appointment. This is the time to get answers to all your questions about grooming, makeup, wardrobe and portrait styles. And it's an opportunity to see examples of the photographer's work which may give you an idea for your own portrait.

Since the pre-holiday season is one of the busiest for professional photographers, be sure to make arrangements for your portrait sitting as early as possible. This will give you the time to study the portrait previews, select the final views, and still have all prints made to order and framed in time for holiday giving.

And, for that special someone on your list, consider a portrait gift certificate he or she can redeem at a later date. It's a nice way to ask for a portrait you will always cherish.

ATTRACTIVE SHOWROOM — Looking for the right convertible sofa to give as a gift or for your home? Riviera Sofa at 8975 Central Ave. has over one hundred from which to choose.

Meaningful gifts can be easy on the budget

Take the impulse out of Christmas shopping, if you need to watch the budget this year. Don't be moved by an alluring store display to spend more than you can afford. Go over your shopping list at home and decide exactly what you are looking for.

There are many items at five dollars or less that will please anyone on your list, particularly when you add the personal touch that turns your small gift into a priceless treasure.

For a grandparent or friend who doesn't get out much, how about a gloriously big jigsaw puzzle? Pick a picture attuned to the recipient's interests: dogs, flowers, or a reproduction of a classical or modern painting.

$5 buys a 500-piece puzzle; (and if you can stretch the budget to $5.95, you can get a 1,000-piece puzzle) your personal contribution to this gift will be spending several evenings helping to put the puzzle together.

For any boy or girl in the bluejean set, give a handful of colorful embroidered or applique patches with the added promise that you'll sew them on.

For the amateur photographer, give two magnetic photo albums for about $5. In a leathery material

FOR THE CAR — Goodyear, long known for quality tires, also brings you quality G.E. appliances for the home as you'll find at the Montclair Goodyear Service Centers at 4015 E. Bicentennial concert set

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The "Eighth Symphony" of Gustav Mahler will be performed next spring in a Bicentennial concert by the Orchestra Society of Philadelphia.

Choruses of nearly 1,000 representing about 12 Philadelphia area groups, plus eight soloists will join with the 130-member orchestra in two concerts.

Portable TVs...

The appeal of the lightweight televisions is understandable. Some models weigh less than 20 pounds without batteries and are priced only slightly higher than plug-in models. With 8- to 12-inch diagonal measure screens, their batteries can be recharged several hundred times with one charge lasting three to four hours. There is also a cigarette lighter adapter cord available, so the transportable TVs can be operated on 12-volt car or boat systems.

AN ANNIVERSARY — Sleep is the business of Sleepcraft, 4911 Holt Blvd. and has been since 1946. The store is now celebrating its 22nd anniversary with many outstanding bedding values being offered, a portion of which are pictured above. All of their products are made in their own factory located in the store.

Digital clock radios versatile

Looking for a Christmas gift-idea that offers its user a host of welcome services? Then select a clock radio.

The most modern of these receivers has the digital clock with large easy-to-read numerals as a replacement for the conventional clock face. Most are illuminated for nighttime viewing.

Some of the features to look for when shopping include: AM and virtually drift-free FM reception from a single set; two alarms — a radio alarm and a buzzer alarm. These allow the sleeper a choice of the way he wakes up — to a favorite radio program, or to a favorite program closely followed by an insistent buzzer. Each alarm, of course, goes off at the pre-set time.

Some clock radios have what is called target tuning. When the station is tuned for best reception, a tiny red light-emitting diode lights up to "tell" you so.

Some other advantages are a lull-you-to-sleep switch; weather command, a front-of-the-set with gold-tooled designs or with a wood-grain finish, they need no glue or corners to hold photos in place. Just to get the album started, add a first page of photos your friend will enjoy, candids of your last get-together, or pictures of their new baby or family pet.

For the man or woman who likes to bake, give a collection of wooden rolling pins. Both decorative and useful, these wooden rolling pins imported from Europe cost about $2 each. Plain or patterned with fancy carving, they'll inspire the baker to new heights.

Add a recipe for the pastry or cookies each rolling pin was designed for, and tie them in a cluster with red ribbons.

For a gardener, select a small Chinese basket that will make an interesting cache-pot. Now get some string or yarn, and macrame a long holder for the basket. Result: a custom home for some lucky hanging plant.

For fun, tie jingle bells in the macrame and add a colorful Christmas ornament to the bottom tassel.

For a family member who needs to diet for health reasons and/or appearance, give a neat bathroom scale for about $4.99.

Choose a color to complement bathroom decor, or else choose black or white to be safe. Add your personal promise to join in a diet at the same time for moral support.

After this Christmas, both your figure and your bankbook will be in very good shape!

Christmas puppy: how to care for it

What's the most exciting Christmas stocking-stuffer of all? A new puppy, of course! To help that new pup grow to healthy adulthood, here are some tips from some dog experts:

Young dogs need to be fed often, for energy and general nutrition. Three or four feedings a day is usually recommended. As the puppy grows older, you can decrease feedings. Most full-grown dogs eat only once a day.

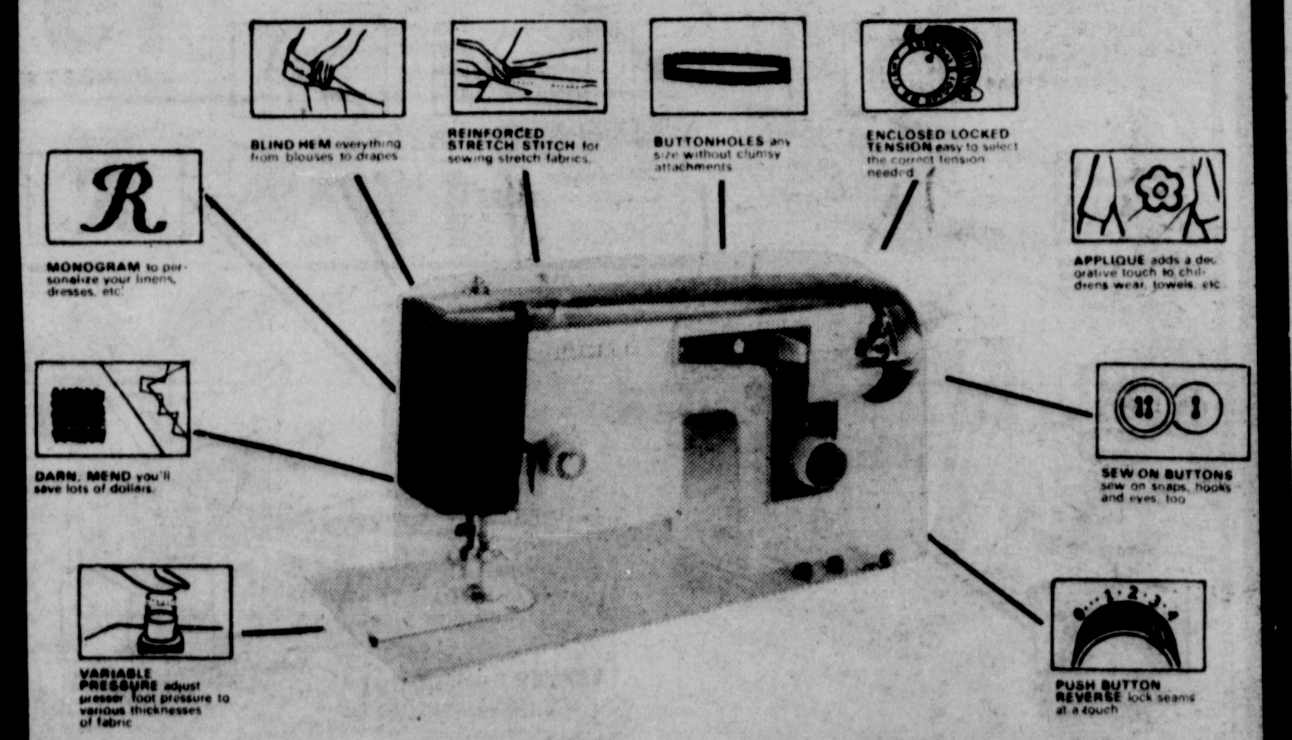

Check dog food labels for feeding advice as well as nutritional information. Not all pet foods are adequate for a puppy's special needs during the growth period. Make sure the food you choose — whether canned, semi-moist or dry — is labeled 100 per cent nutritionally complete or complete for growth and maintenance. And always keep fresh water available for your dog.

Table scraps won't hurt your dog in moderation, but they won't provide balanced nutrition, either. Above all, avoid feeding soft bones that can splinter and crack.

Nothing's quite as annoying as a dog who "begs" at the dinner table. Feed your pet before the family's dinbutton for instant selection of the U.S. Weather Service Band if the government has one of its weather stations in your area; plus a down-firing circle of sound speaker. This provides the listener with music radiating 360 degrees around the set.

Be sure the clock radio you select is solid state. The reward: instant play, cool operation, greater reliability, low energy usage and longer life.

Choose a digital clock radio for a gift and chances are you will be getting around-the-clock thank you's for your thoughtfulness.

Productivity sag noted

MOORESTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Virtually any company can save $1,000 per job a year from an employe productivity improvement program, according to Science Management Corp.

The figure is based on an analysis of results achieved from more than 1,700 projects carried out by the productivity improvement organization.

The biggest sources of low productivity are overstaffing, inadequate supervision and poor work methods, noted James A. Skidmore Jr., president of Science Management.

Use imagination in wrapping gifts

Part of the fun of holidays is preparing for them.

At Christmas, that means buying and wrapping gift packages for family, relatives and special friends.

For the artful, new approach to holiday wrapups, to vary the traditional holly and ribbons, try using decal designs in different styles and patterns.

There's a wide variety of designs to choose from, and many have an old-fashioned, Victorian flavor — cherubs, birds, flowers, ladies — that turn out beautiful boxes to place under the holiday tree.

Decals are easy to work with and, most important in today's economy, inexpensive, too. By using them with plain paper and scraps left over from sewing projects, it's possible to create elegant-looking wrappings — yet still have money left for other gifts.

Paper-wrap the gift box, then simply add a decal design at a central, focal point. Frame the design with white lace edging, gold braid or other trim, and glue it on in square or diagonal patterns.

For gifts that you make or bake, clever packages can be done up by turning tea or cracker tins into decorative containers. Cover the tin first with fabric or plain paper. Then apply decals strategically and trim with ribbon, lace or braid, which also serves to disguise uneven edges.

Other crafty containers can be made of brightly-colored paper rolled into cone shapes and decorated. Cut paper into half circles; fold into vari-sized cones and glue edges together. Apply designs and edge with braid, lace or beads. Glue or staple on velvet ribbon at either side of the opening and tie in a bow. Or loop into hangups, so the package/cones also can be hung on the tree as ornaments.

"Customizing" wrap-ups not only will add to the holiday fun, it will carry a personal, warm message with the gift inside.

ner hour, then teach him early that begging won't work.

Dog biscuits are a healthier reward for pets than sweets. Biscuits are palatable to the dog and help clean and strengthen gums and teeth.

Providing a few "toys" for your puppy to chew on saves wear and tear on furniture and clothing. Puppies need to chew when their teeth are developing. A knotted sock, old slipper, or inexpensive rubber toy will do the trick.

Guitar ideal for young at heart

People of all ages will celebrate Christmas this year with a resounding strum.

They'll be among those whose gifts include a guitar — and they'll be joining the 10 million Americans of all ages who already play for personal expression, challenge, relaxation, sharing music with friends or just plain fun.

The guitar, an ideal gift for a family member, relative or close friend, is a good choice for a beginner, or for someone who already plays another instrument.

It's one of the easiest instruments to learn to play; it's adaptable to almost any musical form or fest; and its versatility is almost sure to bridge a generation gap.

The Guitar and Accessory Manufacturers Assn. has some plucky advice for guitar-hunting Christmas shoppers, along with a rundown of the many models available to suit almost any taste, ability and budget.

Prices for quality guitars range from about $90 up to several thousand dollars, although less expensive models can be bought for as little as $50.

Shop around. No two instruments are alike. Make sure you're comfortable with the "feel" as well as the sound of your new guitar.

The classic guitar's mellow sound lends itself to soft ballads, stirring classical arrangements and lively Flamenco music. It can be used both for vocal accompaniment and solos.

Nylon strings, lightness and a relatively small size make it a good choice for beginners and youngsters.

The standard steel stringer is a natural for country-western, blue-grass, blues, folksy ballads and rock.

Also good for beginners, the steel-stringer is heavier, stronger and has a louder, twangier sound than the classic, although it requires slightly more fingering effort. It's at its best during social gatherings and jam sessions.

For the jazz-oriented person, consider the arched-top steel stringer. It lends itself to complex jazz progressions and enables the player to form chords faster since lighter string action can be used.

More experienced players may enjoy a 12-strong steel guitar. With a larger body, a stronger, wider neck than its six-string counterpart, it can produce a greater range of sounds, although it's not as technically versatile.

Electric guitars, which have become almost synonymous with rock, make ideal choices for potential Eric Clapton emulators.

Solid body electrics are used almost exclusively in rock bands and can't function well without an amplifier. The hollow-body "F" hole model fits in well with jazz groups, where a turn of a knob changes it from a rhythm instrument into an amplified solo instrument.

Note: some solid and hollow-body electrics are made especially for left-handers, with the controls on the reverse side.

After you've decided which guitar to buy, why not supplement your purchase with a basic illustrated chord book or a simple tune book with songs that can be played using only two or three chords? Play-along records also make good choices for the beginner.

Ask your local music dealer about further suggestions on choosing self-instruction aids.

You may also want to introduce the new guitar player to group lessons. Modern group instruction techniques make learning to play easier and much more fun than it was as recently as five years ago.

And fun is what guitar playing is all about.

President's order lifts many tariffs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signed an executive order eliminating tariffs on a wide range of manufactured goods and agricultural products from 98 developing countries, most of them in Asia, Latin America and Africa.

The order, signed on Monday, is aimed at encouraging the developing countries to broaden their export activities so they can be more self-sufficient in international trade.

Tariffs were eliminated on 2,724 categories of imports from 98 developing countries and 39 dependent territories and were estimated by U.S. officials to cover $2.6 billion a year in goods.

Excluded from the tariff concessions were "import sensitive" items such as automobiles, textiles, shoes, electronic products and some other items.

Among Communist countires, Yugoslavia and Romania will benefit from Ford's order, which also applies to the British crown colony of Hong Kong.

Retirees get poor advice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Melvin Jay Schwartz, an attorney who specializes in estate planning, says:

"The great middle-class retired section of our population is uninformed and easily harmed financially by everybody from con artists to their children."

Schwartz says he has counseled more than 4,000 retired persons and "not more than 20 of them had proper advice in planning their retirement."

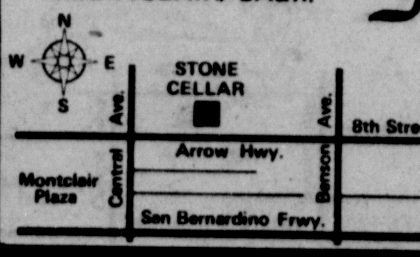

The greatest mistake, he believes, is not spending some money for sound advice. "But people will take the word of a supermarket clerk, a bank teller, a friend's cousin — almost anyone whose information is free."

Only journey

George Washington, first President of the United States, made his only journey away from the continent in 1751 when he accompanied his half-brother, Lawrence, who was seriously ill with tuberculosis, to Barbados for his health.

Is there a method?

SAN DIEGO (AP) — There's method to what some men may consider the madness of Bob Holden.

The 41-year-old Grossmont College engineering teacher is a member of the National Organization for Women and a new member of its California state board — the only male so elevated.

"My feeling is that women are unfairly treated and that men have to do what they can about it," says Holden in an interview.

"There are advantages to the man, too, I've found. The liberated woman earns her own way rather than having it all evolve on men. Both husband and wife should share in supporting the family.

"Maybe we can restructure the world so that both can work part-time"
